BORDER CLASH INEVITABLE

ITALIAN PLANES CROSS FRONTIER

FRANCE PROMISES TO ASSIST BRITAIN

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, Oct. 1, 8 a.m.)

Rome, Sept. 30.

It is learned in authoritative quarters that the Ethiopian order for general mobilisation may force Italy to order her troops to advance in order to ensure the safety of the Italian colonies in East Africa.

It is claimed that Emperor Selassie is unable to control his feudal lords, who are the leaders of his fighting forces, and that it would be impossible for him or them to avert a frontier clash when 1,000,000 Ethiopians are in arms.

Afternoon newspapers to-day state that the Italians' test mobilisation of 10,000,000 men, women and children is "very near."

The newspapers are also attacking Great Britain, saying that any nation which condemns mobilisation desires to accept responsibility for a European war.—United Press.

TRIBES SAVAGE

Awash, Sept. 30.

The general mobilisation order has unleashed savage emotions amongst the Ethiopian warriors, who are always fanatical.

In the mountains every man and woman is obtaining ammunition and is determined to kill as many Italians as possible.

A massacre, says an observer, will be the only way to quell Emperor Selassie's followers.—United Press.

BOMBERS OVER FRONTIER

Addis Ababa, Sept. 30.

Italian bombers have flown over Ethiopian territory with the object of frightening the Ethiopian patriots, and have actually fired with machine guns.

Hostilities are therefore believed to be imminent.

It is learned that the Ethiopians have been ordered to avoid pitched battles and to fight from ambush, following the principles of guerrilla warfare and sniping at the enemy.—United Press.

RUMOUR OF ATTACK

Geneva, Sept. 30.

Rumours that the Italians have crossed the Ethiopian frontier have caused League officials to prepare for the sudden convocation of the Council to consider penalties. A League spokesman said that the Council would be called to an emergency meeting the moment the reports were verified.

Telegraphic verification from Ethiopia will be acceptable by the League.

The League must ascertain first whether the reported Italian troop movements are preparations for invasion, or an accomplished act of aggression, and the latest reports have indicated they were merely the former. In Rome there is no knowledge of troop activities at Asab, Ualual or Asmara.—United Press.

GREYNA GREEN MARRIAGES

London, Sept. 30.

The Secretary of State for Scotland, Sir Godfrey Collins, announced in Edinburgh to-day his intention to set up a committee to inquire into the marriage laws of Scotland, and the changes, if any, which are desirable, with particular reference to marriages at Gretna Green.—British Wireless.

FRANCE TO AID BRITAIN?

WILL FIGHT IF ITALY ATTACKS

WARSHIPS MOVING

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, October 1, 8 a.m.)

Paris, Sept. 30.

It is learned officially that Great Britain has asked for France's attitude in the event of any nation attacking Britain while she is enforcing League sanctions.

An official spokesman said: "France will be forced to aid Britain if Italy attacks her while she is enforcing the League's sanctions."

Officials indicated that such a specific act would call for military and naval aid under the existing agreements. The question of mutual assistance is now under discussion by the nations' representatives.—United Press.

REPORT DENIED

Paris, Sept. 30.

Official circles deny any knowledge of the reported British request for assurance that France would come to the aid of the British Fleet if it were attacked by Italy in the Mediterranean.

It is now authoritatively stated that an urgent meeting of the Cabinet may possibly be held to-morrow and observers are of the opinion that the rush to hold this meeting is inspired by the desire of the French Government to reach a decision which can be presented to the British Government when it meets on October 2. It is probably on the subject of French assistance in the event of an attack upon Britain that the Cabinet will debate policy.—Reuter.

PARIS ACITATED

Paris, Sept. 30.

It is rollably learned that France has strengthened her naval forces in the Mediterranean and (Continued on Page 7.)

The Emperor of Ethiopia has ordered the mobilisation of his Army for to-day. Picture shows infantry at bayonet practice against straw-filled sacks.

SPORTING AIRMEN IN COLONY

TRAVELLING BY EASY STAGES

MEXICO TO EUROPE

The first persons ever to have engaged in a round-the-world pleasure flight arrived here yesterday. They are Fritz Bieler, former German war ace and now a naturalised Mexican citizen, and Howard L. Farquhar, Secretary of the British Legation in Mexico City.

The two adventurers have completed the first and most hazardous portion of their jaunt by successfully flying from Mexico City, via the United States, Alaska, Anadir (Siberia), Manchukuo and Peiping.

The two airmen will remain in Hongkong for two days, after which they will continue their flight to Bangkok. They are not adhering to a set itinerary, but are flying by easy stages, remaining in cities or outlandish centres when they feel in the mood for stretching their legs.

From Bangkok they will fly to India, hunting, shooting, and fishing all the way. The itinerary calls for subsequent flights to Persia, Egypt and finally to Europe.

TREASURY RETURNS

STRIKING GAINS IN BRITAIN

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, October 1, 8 a.m.)

London, Sept. 30.

Striking increases both in revenue and expenditure are the outstanding features of the Treasury returns for the past year, ending on September 30.

Revenue increased over £13,000,000 and expenditure nearly £18,000,000. The Budget was framed on the assumption that the revenue increase for the whole year would be £18,000,000 and expenditure £25,000,000.

Income Tax increased £1,800,000, estate duties nearly £6,500,000, and Customs and Excise £6,000,000.

The chief item of unforeseen expenditure was £5,305,000 on the expansion of the Royal Air Force.—Reuter-Special.

BRITISH TROOPS SUFFER

CASUALTIES IN MOHMAND WAR

TWO OFFICERS KILLED

Simla, Oct. 1.

Two British officers have been killed and three wounded and between 70 and 80 other ranks are casualties in fighting with the Mohmands, according to an official communique.

The communique explains that certain tribes were allowed to return to their own country after expressing a desire for peace. The Government then suspended air operations over Sasi and the country was invited to join the tribes and send in their jirgas.

However, while reconnoitring from Wacha Jawar camp British troops were heavily engaged by Lashkars. The tribesmen suffered very seriously.

This flouting of attempts to establish friendly contact with the upper tribes has caused the Government to reconsider its whole attitude towards the tribes.

THE CASUALTIES

Killed.—Captain G. Moynell and Lieut. A. P. S. Rendall;

Wounded.—Major S. B. Good and Lieut. G. J. Hamilton.—Reuter.

ANOTHER VERSION

London, Sept. 30.

An ambush of troops, with heavy casualties, is reported from the North-West Frontier of India. A few weeks ago, a force of British and Indian troops occupied a position in the Mohmand area during negotiations with the tribes, following disturbances in that region.

Early yesterday, a company engaged on a reconnaissance movement westwards from Nahakdi Pass was attacked by tribes in greatly superior numbers, which had been in close concealment. Hand-to-hand fighting took place, and there were heavy casualties on the British side. One British officer was killed and two are missing, one believed killed. Two Indian officers are missing and three British and two Indian officers were wounded. In other ranks, thirty-four are reported missing and forty-six wounded.—British Wireless.

CALM IN MEMEL PRESERVED

SECOND DAY OF ELECTIONS

PRO-GERMAN POPULACE

Memel, Sept. 30.

The second day of the elections passed off quietly, but at Schnelz many electors complained of not being able to vote.

Journalists touring the polling stations received an uproarious welcome from the population, which held impromptu pro-German demonstrations under the eyes of the silent Lithuanian police.

The open manner in which the demonstrations were held indicates that the populace is not in any state of political suppression by the Lithuanians, but it also affords impressive evidence of the strength of pro-German feeling in the Memel territory.

Meanwhile, speculation has been aroused by the unexpected arrival of Herr Hitler at Koenigsberg, accompanied by General von Blomberg and General von Fritsch, but a rumour that Hitler intends to deliver an important speech at Tilsit, on the German side of the Memel River, to-morrow, lacks official confirmation.—Reuter.

AIR MARSHAL PASSES

SIR VYELL VYVYAN'S FINE RECORD

London, Sept. 30.

The death is announced of Air Marshal Sir Vyell Vyvyan, K.C.B., D.S.O., at the age of 60 years.

Formerly of the Royal Navy and the Royal Air Force, Sir Vyell Vyvyan served in the punitive naval expedition against the King of Benin in 1897, was on the staff of the R. N. War College from 1911 to 1913, and served in the Dar-danelles in 1914-15, being awarded the D.S.O., the Legion of Honour, the Orders of St. Anne and the Rising Sun, the American Distinguished Service Order, and the Grand Cordon of the Redeemer. He retired from the R.A.F. in 1925.—Reuter.

GOLD ARRIVES

New York, Sept. 30.

Another shipment of gold, valued at $15,068,000, has arrived from the Netherlands, together with 288 cases of unestimated value from British India and 9,524 bars of British silver.—United Press.

BLACK ARMIES ON MARCH

ITALY STARTLED AT MOBILISATION

ETHIOPIA NO LONGER OBJECT OF FUN

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, Oct. 1, 8 a.m.)

Rome, Sept. 30.

The prospect of imminent mobilisation in Ethiopia seems to have made the people here pause and think.

They no longer make fun of Ethiopia, but talk seriously of the fact that that country is capable of mobilising a million and more men, compared to the quarter million Italy has at her disposal in Eritrea and Italian Somaliland.

Meanwhile the preparations for the defence of Italy's coast goes on at home and troops still leave for the East African adventure. Another 15,000 fighting men left Naples to-day, bringing the total of the week to 30,000.

GIANT LINER ASHORE

NEARLY 1,000 ON BOARD

BRITISH SHIP GIVES HELP

(Special to "Telegraph")

New York, Sept. 30.

With 450 passengers and 526 crew aboard, the 24,149-ton Holland-America liner Rotterdam, went hard aground on a reef at Morant Cays Island, in the Caribbean Sea, whilst returning from a West Indies cruise.

The first attempt to float the liner was unsuccessful, and the British steamer Argonaut is now taking off the passengers and conveying them to Kingston, Jamaica, sixty miles away.—Reuter-Special.

A United Press message states that the passengers and crew are being removed as a precaution, the actual danger to the liner being slight.

Millionaire Offends

SHOUTED INSULTS AT ITALIANS

FORCED TO LEAVE ITALY

Rome, Sept. 30.

The American millionaire, Mr. James Donoghue, cousin of the heiress, the former Miss Barbara Hutton, has been expelled from Italy for leaning from the balcony of a leading Rome hotel and shouting at passers-by "Long live Abyssinia."

Mr. Donoghue was escorted to the railway station by detectives. An official spokesman told Reuter that "Donoghue's behaviour was An armoured train, equipped with six inch guns, will shortly be put into operation along the coast lines between Rome and Genoa. The train is to assist in guarding against sea or air attacks, and especially the coast stretch from Civita Vecchia and Pisa.

In the neighbourhood of the naval base at Spezia another train has been equipped with anti-gas devices and will commence immediately to demonstrate before every town in the country the best means of combating gas attacks. With the special approval of Signor Mussolini anti-gas propaganda is being carried out by means of phonograph records.—Reuter-Special.

NEUTRAL OBSERVERS

Geneva, Sept. 30.

The three experts who have been studying the proposal to send observers to Ethiopia have not yet finished their report, but it will be ready and in the hands of the Committee of Thirteen when that body meets on Thursday.

The advice of the French explorer M. Marcel Griaule is being sought.

The problems of finding suitable landing grounds and airmen with a knowledge of the language of the Ethiopians and getting them to the spot in the short time available, present great difficulties. It is generally believed, therefore, that the experts will probably report unfavourably against the despatch of a mission.—Reuter.

EMPEROR COMMANDS

Addis Ababa, Sept. 30.

Ras Kassa, commander of Ethiopia's northern army of 250,000 men, has made preparations for a war lasting two to three years, having laid in large supplies of food which is buried in various spots around his headquarters.

An aeroplane service, which will keep him in close touch with the Emperor, has been arranged. Planes will reach him twice weekly. The Emperor will probably supervise operations on all fronts, directing Ras Kassa, the fighting at Ogaden and in the east in Dessye.—Reuter.

offensive, so he was asked to leave the country."

Count and Countess Revinsky, the latter the former Princess Mdivani, neo-Barbara Hutton, have issued a statement saying they are "good friends of Italy" and "foundly regret" the occurrence. They wish to dissociate themselves from Mr. Donoghue's action.—Reuter.

Blonde Beauty in New Flight Record Bid

CAPE AND BACK, 16,000 MILES IN WEEK

MR. DAVID LLEWELLYN, one of the most experienced instructors in British flying, starts from England this week on an attempt to fly to Capetown and back, 16,000 miles, in a week.

His companion and co-navigator will be his ex-flying pupil, Mrs. Jill Wyndham, the beautiful blonde wife of a naval commander. She has had only sixty hours' flying.

His machine, the first of its type, and untested will be the Heck, a black-and-gold monoplane, polished smooth as glass.

Fifteen months ago Mr. Llewellyn put Mrs. Wyndham into the air on her first solo flight. Her husband, Commander Wyndham, came often to Haverhill airfield during the next few months to watch his wife earning her wings.

A warm friendship sprang up between the three.

Earlier this year Mr. Llewellyn had Atlantic flight plans. But disaster wrecked his hopes.

On the night of April 8 the airliner he was ferrying developed engine trouble. While he was gliding gently to a forced landing a tree loomed suddenly out of the darkness. For two months Mr. Llewellyn's body was encased in hospital plaster.

His face still bears the scars of his accident.

"Not Much Sleep"

The Heck was withdrawn from this year's King's Cup race for the attempt. Extra tanks have given the luxuriously finished machine a cruising range of 1,100 miles.

"We're not going to get very much sleep," Mrs. Wyndham said. It was difficult to imagine this slim, quiet woman sitting drawn-eyed behind a roaring engine racing hour after hour southwards through Africa.

"The first day is going to mean eighteen or nineteen hours solid flying," she continued. "We have to time our arrival in Egypt so as to be able to leave Cairo at dawn after a few hours' rest. Egyptian and Sudanese regulations will not allow us to fly by night."

"Then while Mr. Llewellyn gets a little sleep in the air I shall try to keep the Heck on its course. What a responsibility!"

"I have no navigator's licence; I've just got what he taught me."

"My Big Worry"

Mr. Llewellyn is not afraid she will lose the way.

"We have blind flying instruments and a gyroscopic compass," he said.

"My big worry has been in getting permission to leave this country."

MRS. JILL WYNDHAM
won't get much sleep.

Just now. I am a member of the Reserve of Air Officers. They have not been keen to let me go.

"But we shall be back in a week. Why shouldn't we? I have a good machine, and good ground arrangements all the way through."

He hopes to reach Capetown in three days.

The Heck is one of the most striking civil aircraft now available for the private owner. Its speed range lies between 40 and 180 m.p.h.

Mr. Llewellyn is son of Sir William Llewellyn, President of the Royal Academy.

Record for England-Capetown flight is held by Mrs. Amy Mollison. She flew there in four days six hours in 1932.

CHIEF SITTING EAGLE HAS SPOKEN

Winnipeg, Sept. 19.
Chief Sitting Eagle of the Pipestone Sioux Indians would not take North America back as a gift.

"We had this country once," he said, "and it was in a lot better shape then. The Pale-faces won it and Indians always play for keeps. You got it. You can keep it. No exchanges can be made on these goods, thanks."

The Sioux of Pipestone, Manitoba, came to Canada many years ago from the United States.—United Press.

Honour For U.S. Negro Woman Lawyer

Aid In Inquiries Into "Rackets"

New York, Sept. 1.
A unique honour has been paid to a negro lawyer, Mrs. Eunice Hunton Carter, Mr. Thomas Dewey, the special prosecutor in charge of the investigation of New York "rackets," has appointed her a member of his staff of legal experts.

He believes she will be able to make a valuable contribution to his efforts to collect information about gambling in Harlem. Mrs. Carter will be the only woman assisting Mr. Dewey, who has already selected nine lawyers, and is about to select 10 more.

More than 3,000 have applied for posts, and he sat up late last night interviewing 150 of them in his office in the Woolworth skyscraper.

Special screens have been erected to protect people who call to give information from the eyes of spies sent by gangsters anxious to intimidate witnesses. All desks and filing cabinets in the office will be sealed every evening to prevent the theft of incriminating documents.

Mrs. Carter, who is 36, is the wife of a dentist and has a son aged nine. She has been interested in social work in Harlem since she left Smith College, where she secured an M.A. degree. As a young woman she studied at Strasbourg, and followed law courses at Fordham University in the evenings after leaving college.

Her father, William Hunton, was founder of the Y.M.C.A. work among negroes.

A WORD TO Women

Suffering That Can be Avoided.

No woman should allow nervous weakness to get the upper hand of her; if she does, worry will mar her work in the home and torment her in body and mind.

Day after day spent amid the same surroundings is enough to cause irritability and depression; but there are other causes, so every woman knows, that tend to make her nerves become run-down. A change would benefit her jaded system and rest might improve her nerves, but best of all for weary, run-down women is a course of Dr. Williams' pink pills. These pills create new blood, rich with the elements on which the nerves thrive; it is in this way that they restore regular health, increased energy, and strong, steady nerves.

Women know as well as doctors that their health depends upon a full supply of blood. Nervousness, sick headache, pains in the back and limbs, poor appetite and depression are evidence of a bloodless state. It follows, because Dr. Williams' pink pills make new rich blood, that they are a boon to weak, bloodless women.

COMMON COLD CURE

Scientist's
Five-Minute
TreatmentREADY TO SUBMIT
TO ANY TEST

After years of struggle and patient research, a British scientist claims to have discovered a certain cure for the common cold, long recognised as one of the worst menaces to the health of mankind. By means of rays emanating from a rare metal the amazing powers of which he has proved to his own satisfaction and to that of his fellow-workers, Mr. W. G. Moore, a Manxman, has cured within a few seconds the most obstinate head, throat and nose colds.

"When one realises that the common cold costs this country alone millions of pounds in money every year—because of the loss to trade by illness of workers—to say nothing of the mortality figures, one can measure the worth and significance of my discovery," he said.

Instantaneous

"Just about five years ago," he went on, "I discovered that the rare metal, titanium, alloyed with tungsten, gave greater penetrations and bactericidal action—and that these rays, allied with autonomic therapy, were almost miraculous in the way in which they cured the common cold.

"My ray is derived from an electric arc, produced by currents passing through the titanium. I treat patients through the nasal organs, and the cure is practically instantaneous.

"I am ready to submit my treatment to any test—in public if need be—and I guarantee that I can cure any cold within this space of five minutes."

Mr. Moore is a former associate of the late Dr. Hall Edwards—the "X-Ray Martyr."

For some years past he has been working at the Institute of Autonomic Therapy, 3, St. James-st., London.

"My colleague Mr. Andre Harpman and I have proved," he said, "that autonomic therapy and the titanium ray can not only cure colds, but can banish some diseases hitherto pronounced incurable."

He Spent
PyramidsEERIE WATCH IN
LONELY GRAVE

The first white man ever to spend a night in the Great Pyramid has returned to London.

He is Mr. Paul Brunton, the author and investigator of Eastern psychic mysteries. He is back home after eight months' research into archaeological and psychic matters connected with ancient and modern Egypt.

By special permission of the Egyptian Government, he was allowed the eerie experience of spending a night alone in the King's Chamber of the Great Pyramid.

"It certainly was an eerie experience, and for several days afterwards I was far from well," Mr. Brunton said.

Sat in Darkness

"I sat in total darkness throughout the night, concentrating and making my mind completely receptive to the psychic vibrations."

"After about six hours I had a most extraordinary experience. I saw in a vision two ancient High Priests in the ceremonial robes of their religion, who showed me a hitherto undiscovered and secret passage inside the Pyramids—but the entrance to it I was unable to discover."

"I was told that the Chamber into which this passage led contained prehistoric records, describing the unknown history of an earlier mankind, an Atlantean race. I was able to confirm by personal experience my theory that in this room the High Priests put their pupils into hypnotic trances wherein their spirits were released from their bodies and they were shown that the soul definitely survives death."

Mr. Brunton's long and detailed researches into the origins of the Pyramids and Sphinx have convinced him that these monuments were originally put up by the Atlanteans—that is, by an emigrant colony from the now sunken Continent of Atlantis.

He believes that the overwhelming of Atlantis caused the Sahara sea-bed to emerge as dry land.

SIKHS
AFRICA

Indian Sikhs, biggest family in the world, according to Gordon Sinclair, who has done a bit of wandering in India, have been sent to Africa to defend British property in event of war. Hard-riding, loyal and excellent fighters, the Sikhs never shave nor cut their hair, nor drink nor smoke. There are ten million of them in India—they are India's policemen—and they all have the same family name, Singh. Chief Sikh is Maharajah of Patiala, one of the world's greatest potentates, and personal aide-de-camp of King George. The picture shows a Sikh major. It was taken by Gordon Sinclair on his last trip to India.

Cattle King Who Began
With A One-Eyed Horse

Melbourne, Sept. 15.

SIR SIDNEY KIDMAN, Australia's "cattle king," has died; aged seventy-eight.

When he was thirteen he left home to seek fortune. He owned a one-eyed horse, a saddle, a bridle, a rug, and five shillings in cash. He died owning pastoral land nearly twice the size of Britain.

Kidman's family were originally farmers in East Anglia, and there is a record of a land transfer to a Kidman in the days of Queen Elizabeth. His parents emigrated to Australia and settled near Adelaide where Sidney was born.

The boy began to roam the countryside. Early in life he missed two fortunes in Broken Hill mines and became a postman-contractor. He bought a one-fourteenth share in the original Broken Hill Company, which he sold later for £150.

That share is estimated today to be worth £5,000,000.

Risked His Life

The boy got his first start as a cattle owner when a great drought sent many penniless stockraisers to the coasts.

Much abandoned stock survived the drought, and Kidman bought a ranch in the affected country.

He took his life in his hands when he went to round up strays in a country inhabited by hostile natives, but he won through.

He collected 3,000 horses and 500 cattle.

Soon he was the most powerful cattle man in Australia.

He never drank. He was known to be the "rarest loser" in Australia.

In 1908 he went to London; needed men. He asked London omnibus drivers if they would come to Australia. Many of them did. All prospered.

Sir Sidney was knighted in 1921 for war services.

FOUR COUNTRIES
SHARE PROFITSSEALER RETURNS WITH
$1,800,000 PELT CARGO

Seattle, Sept. 24.

The Navy supply ship Sirius, bringing a $1,800,000 cargo of sealskins back from the Pribilof Islands of the Bering Sea, also brought with it five live seals for Balboa Park Zoo, San Diego, this year.

The seals were youngsters, captured at the bleak islands where the great herds congregated every year for the breeding season. They travelled in crates supplied with ice daily to maintain low temperatures.

Commander J. C. Cunningham was relieved to be free of his cargo when he reached Seattle. The seal pelts, taken under supervision of the U.S. Government, were shipped to St. Louis for processing and sale. Receipts will be divided among the governments of the United States, Great Britain and Japan, the American share much the largest.

ARTIFICIAL RADIUM

Factories
Will Be Open Soon

—Professor Claims

San Francisco, Sept. 1.

ARTIFICIAL radium, until now only the dream of scientists, will shortly be manufactured on a commercial basis from table salt, phosphorus, and other cheap, abundant substances.

The world's leading atom-smasher, Professor Ernest Lawrence, announced this discovery—which will revolutionise the war on cancer—at a meeting of the American Chemical Society in San Francisco to-day.

Safe Injections

Artificial radium will not only be much cheaper than natural radium, which at present costs about £10,000 per gramme, but it will also be two or three times more powerful.

It is expected that factories will in a few months be turning out the artificial radium.

At present physicians dare not inject radium into the tissues of human beings since radium is not only poisonous but has the power to radiate for years, accumulating trouble resulting in death.

Salt radium, however, is spontaneously destroyed in a few hours, and can therefore be injected into cancerous tissues.

In A Day's Work

Just what artificial radium will cost as a marketed product has not yet been determined, but it will unquestionably be small compared with the cost of natural radium.

Professor Lawrence, who makes the product by atomic bombardment of table salt by high-voltage electricity, is now able to produce cheaply in a ten-hour working day enough of the synthetic substance to equal in potency radium which would cost several thousand pounds.

If Roger
Casement
Had LiedOFFER BY CROWN TO SPARE HIS LIFE

Roger Casement, executed for high treason during the war, was betrayed into British hands by the Germans.

Even after his capture he might have saved his life but for the fact that he refused to tell a lie.

These facts, made known for the first time, are contained in Roger Casement's own private papers, now in the possession of his family.

When Casement was taken prisoner after he had landed on the Irish coast from a German submarine, powerful influences got to work to save him from the death penalty in view of his previous services to the Empire.

After long negotiation, it is revealed a member of the Government of that day intimated that if Casement advanced the plea of insanity the Crown would accept it and he would be ordered to be detained during His Majesty's pleasure, with the certainty of being released after the war.

This offer was conveyed to Casement in Pentonville prison, but he refused to permit this defence to be put forward, saying he preferred death to a lying plea.

Tricked By Germans

Almost the last thing Casement wrote in his diary was his profound conviction that he had been tricked by the Germans.

The Germans wanted him to form an Irish Brigade, recruited among prisoners of war, but they had no intention of transporting this brigade to Ireland to fight for Irish independence.

"I am convinced," Casement wrote, "that the intention was to send this brigade on the Western Front. When I realised that, I decided to have nothing more to do with the enterprise."

"It was then that the Germans decided to repatriate me to Ireland. I am convinced that it was they who advised the British authorities of my landing plans in order to ensure that I should fall into British hands. It was their idea of punishing me for my failure to fall in with their plans."

It was left to his family to determine whether any or all of his papers should be published. They have decided against publication.

THE HARDEST
EARNED
MONEYV.C. GIVES AWAY HIS
£10 BOUNTY

In the balance-sheet of the Royal Chelsea Hospital there appears a brief entry, which reads:—

"From the Bradley V.C. Fund —£10."

Behind this cryptic announcement there lies the story of a hero who voluntarily surrenders the £10 bounty which the State pays to him annually for his deed of valour.

Twenty-four-year-old F. A. Bradley, serving in the South African war as a driver in the Royal Field Artillery, was one of a little garrison surrounded at Itala, in Zululand, by 1,600 Boers.

Man after man was shot down in attempting to cross the fatal 150 yards, swept by gunfire. Driver Bradley succeeded, carried ammunition up the hill, saved the day.

At the end of the war Lord Kitchener pinned the V.C. on his chest.

To-day Driver Bradley is a veteran of nearly sixty, but each year when he receives his bounty, the hardest-earned money in the Army—he sends it to the hospital.

AUSTRALIA BANS
MAE WEST NOVEL

Melbourne, Sept. 20.

Mae West's novel, "Diamond Lil," otherwise known as "She Done Him Wrong," has been banned by the Customs Department here.

The novel is alleged to "contain indecent and obscene passages."

Miss Mae West's other novel, "The Constant Sinner," continues to be allowed to enter the State freely and be sold at all bookstalls.

"Diamond Lil" is the story of an "underworld queen" who goes to New York from Chicago. All she brings with her is a past. In New York she becomes associated with American gangsters.

PREYING ON HAWKERS

CHINESE POSES AS POLICE CONSTABLE

Liu Po 30, appeared before Mr. Macfadyen at the Central Police Court yesterday afternoon, charged with impersonating a Police officer in Garden Road on September 28 with an unlawful purpose.

Outlining the case, Det. Sgt. J. Shepherd said on September 28, defendant, approached Chee Ho a licensed hawkler in Garden Road and said he was a policeman from No. 8, Police Station, and that complainant was hawking in a prohibited area, and he was to arrest her.

Defendant asked her for 50 cents, but complainant only had 10 cents which she handed over. A fruit hawkler close by told complainant that Liu Po was not a policeman, but one she recognised as a man who intimidated hawkers.

Complainant gave chase, and defendant was arrested by an Indian constable in Garden Road.

"Det. Sgt. Shepherd also stated that defendant has had one or two previous convictions, and was continually under Police observation. Defendant was fined $50, or one month.

ETHIOPIA'S CALL TO ARMS — MOBILISATION ORDER SIGNED

Addis Ababa, Sept. 30.
Emperor Selassie will order general mobilisation on Tuesday. The Emperor has cabled the League of Nations that he is unable to delay the move longer. War drums, signal fires, native runners, telegraph and radio will flash the signal summoning over 1,250,000 warriors to a guerilla campaign against Italian invaders.

The Emperor has conferred with foreign military advisers, and it is understood his strategy envisions the placing of 600 warriors in every three square miles of territory, capitalising upon their familiarity with the country, their guerilla experience and their fanatical bravery in the face of superior numbers, and minimising the lack of modern weapons against Italy's mechanised attack.—United Press.

Order Awaited

Addis Ababa, Sept. 30.
The Emperor's word ordering a general mobilisation is eagerly awaited over the whole country.

Reports reaching here tell of preparations hurriedly pushed forward. It is reported that 60 Eritrean levies have deserted and crossed into the Tigre district in the north of Ethiopia with 50 rifles and ammunition, and eight machine guns. They were immediately disarmed and may be incorporated into the Abyssinian army.

It is reported that 30,000 Eritrean troops and 70 tanks and numerous aeroplanes are concentrated round Mount Mousali at the junction of the Ethiopian, Eritrean and French Somaliland frontiers. It is believed that they are preparing to attack across the Aussa Plain.

The French have sent reinforcements to safeguard their frontier.

A Swiss officer has arrived at Awash, on the Addis Ababa Railway, to take over the defence of the railway bridge against air attacks. Anti air-craft guns and 1,000 picked troops have been placed under his command.—Reuter.

Order Signed

Addis Ababa, Sept. 30.
The Emperor has signed the order for general mobilisation though it has not yet been promulgated.—Reuter.

Delay To Help Geneva

Addis Ababa, Sept. 30.
Out of respect for the League of Nations the Emperor has ordered the general Mobilisation decree to be delayed for a short period.—Reuter.

Refugees at Djibouti

Aden, Sept. 30.
Refugees of all nationalities are arriving from Djibouti, to which port they have fled from Ethiopia.—Reuter.

Warlike Populace

Addis Ababa, Sept. 30.
A general feeling of relief has been produced by the signing of the mobilization decree, which has been anxiously awaited for two months.

Every thinking Ethiopian is convinced that at some time war with Italy is inevitable.

Only about half a million men are affected by the order, as many tribal chiefs are already partially mobilized, and about 250,000 men are already under arms.

The mobilization is not likely to take long to complete. All men have been warned in advance to whom to report, and the chiefs have received instructions from the Emperor as regards the destination of their forces.

The women have also greeted the order calmly, and are ready for their men-folk to lay down their lives for their country. Many of the women, it is reported, have urged the men to go to the front voluntarily.—Reuter.

Three Attacks

Addis Ababa, Sept. 30.
The Ethiopian General Staff believes that the Italians are planning to attack from Asseb, in Eritrea, and three Italian attacks may be launched simultaneously from there from Asmara and from Somaliland.

The Italian troops are reported to be chafing at the present inactivity and it is thought that the offensive cannot long be delayed.—Reuter.

MISSIONARIES ALIVE

CHINESE MESSENGER SEES HONAN CAPTIVES

Peiping, Sept. 30.
A message from Changsha states that the Chinese messenger who penetrated north-west Honan to the Communist camp where Messrs. Hayman and Bosshardt are held, states that he saw both men on September 15, but both are ill. Negotiations for their release are still going on.—Reuter.

There was a very large turn out of diplomatic and administrative official in Shanghai, when a solemn Requiem Mass was held in St. Joseph's Church, Rue Montauban, for the repose of the soul of the late Queen Astrid of Belgium. Practically every country and local department was represented, and the above pictures show some of those who attended the service.

KOWLOON "CIRCUS"

CONSTRUCTION OF CONCRETE SHELTERS COMPLETED

The erection by the Kowloon Motor Bus Company of concrete shelters for the comfort of passengers at the Star Ferry "circus" has been completed. The scaffolding is now being removed and the covered way will probably be brought into use next week.

The completion of this work will certainly prove a boon to patrons of the buses. The discomforts experienced when disembarking from and embarking in buses on rainy days will be greatly alleviated with the new scheme. Passengers will be able to leave the Star Ferry wharf and proceed to the waiting buses under cover.

Work on the construction of the covered way was commenced in July, and since then the bus terminus has been shifted from its present position to the left of the Star Ferry "circus" and nearer to the railway station.

The shelters are a neat piece of work. The pillars have been painted half in yellow with a green strip, the remainder being grey, in harmony with the roofing.

Each way there is a pavement from where passengers will embark on the buses. There are five platforms commencing from the side nearest the railway station and narrowing towards the Kowloon Godown entrance.

The shelters were erected at a cost of over $8,000.

It is also hoped to build a rest house, but the exact location has not been determined yet. It is the intention of the Company to erect rest houses at the terminals at Kowloon Tong, Lai-chihok, Shamshuipo, and Kowloon City, similar to those of the Hongkong Tramway Company.

The shelters were constructed from the design of Mr. Leslie Ross, F.R.I.B.A.

STRIKE ENDED

BARGEMEN AND WAREHOUSE HANDS' DECISION

San Francisco, Sept. 30.
Peace on the waterfront has been forecasted here, following a decision by the river bargemen who are on strike, and the Santa Cruz wharfmen to remove all dock pickets and thereby eliminate "black" cargo.

This will permit the longshoremen to handle all types of cargo. At present there are 29 ships tied up and they were all expected to be released on Monday except the Point Clear, which is involved in the British Columbia dispute.—Reuter.

BRITAIN'S REPLY

The British reply to the French enquiry whether the policy at present being followed in the Italo-Ethiopian dispute implies a willingness to resort to sanctions against aggressors in Europe, accords with forecasts of its general tenor. In plain words, it is stated that Britain's policy is one of unwavering fidelity to the League principles and that there is no question of its being peculiar to the present crisis. In his speech at the League Assembly some two or three weeks ago, Sir Samuel Hoare was at great pains to explain the basic principles of Britain's stand for justice; there was no ambiguity what, ever in his utterance. He pledged British support of the League Covenant, and all that it implies, and went on to stress the point that the burden of the Covenant obligations have to be borne collectively, adding that the security of the many could not be ensured by the efforts of a few, however powerful. The Note now delivered to France recapitulates British firm adherence to the Covenant, but rightly points out that appropriate action in different cases may vary. In other words, Britain reserves the right to act on the merits of cases as they arise; she cannot give a definite pledge to a certain course of action in purely hypothetical cases. Actually, there was never any occasion for France to raise the query. That was a mistake in tactics, likely to confuse the position. All that France or any other nation needs to concern itself with at the moment is the question of the correct course to take in the present crisis. A concrete case has arisen, involving a threat to Covenant obligations, and it therefore becomes imperative to see that the collective system enshrined in that Covenant shall not break down. In future crises, the facts may not be on all fours with that which obtains at the moment; it will be time enough to deal with such situations when they actually arise. In the meantime, France has Britain's definite assurance that she stands by the principle of collective resistance to all acts of unprovoked aggression. It therefore follows that if such acts are committed whether in Europe or elsewhere, Britain will take her stand in full alignment with those who are determined to uphold the system of collective guarantees, and in the

NOTES OF THE DAY*PICKING A QUARREL

The British press interprets the recent communique from Rome suggesting bi-lateral conversations with England, as a clever move on the part of Rome to add to the impression that the Ethiopian crisis is caused more by a direct clash of Anglo-Italian interests than by the fact that Italy contemplates a breach of the League Covenant. The Italians go so far as to suggest that the League is in reality neutral in this dispute and that any opposition to the Italian programme in East Africa has been animated entirely by Britain. For some time it has seemed that Italy has been seeking a quarrel with Great Britain. Possibly she believes that she can shake Britain's influence at Geneva, which admittedly is great, and that the League will refuse to support sanctions under the Covenant in the event of a war of aggression in Africa. In that event Britain would either have to abandon the League and wash her hands of the whole European situation, or else fight for the Covenant's principles alone. She has said she will not fight alone. Italy, then, is in reality attempting to cause a diversion, to prevent unanimity in the League Council and thus upset the calculations of those who believe that, by means of a show of strength and a solid front at Geneva, the Roman belligerence may be discouraged. Italy says there is no unanimity at Geneva. We believe she is mistaken and that if she acts on that assumption, believing the corollary that no sanctions will be undertaken against her, she will be unpleasantly surprised.

FARCICAL ELECTION

The Memel election assuredly is one of the most farcical things of the sort we have observed for some time. The Germans are pleased, of course, that they should have turned out in this way, resulting in shootings and riots and the creation of a situation of very threatening proportions, because the Germans are pleased at anything that puts Lithuanians and the Lithuanian administration in an unpleasant light. The cause of the disorders was not far to seek. When the people commenced trickling into the polling booths in the early morning to cast their secret ballots they were confronted with a list of candidates of various parties of staggering dimensions. There were 29 to be elected out of 187 candidates and a voter could pick any combination of 29 names. (Here, incidentally is a piece of mathematics which the Lithuanian authorities may not have taken into consideration: how many different combinations of 29 are possible out of 187 candidates?) In any event, some of the simple country folk spent an hour in the voting booths, perspiring over the list of aspirants and looking for the names of the men they preferred. What a burden for the man who takes his politics seriously! We know of a gentleman who spent three-quarters of an hour marking a ballot on which there were only three names. . . . and he was an Englishman. But that is another story. Meanwhile there were crowds gathering outside the polling stations, demanding entry, suspecting foul play and high treason. Shots were fired: Agitation went about their business. An emergency Cabinet meeting decreed that the polling booths should stay open as long as there were voters waiting to exercise their franchise. And so it goes on. When the voting is finished and the scrutineers start their counting they will have had a record session in the booths and they may be pardoned if they weary. It would be quicker, and probably would not cause any more trouble, if the Memel authorities decided the political issue by the simpler cente-mille-mille-moe system.

taking of such measures as the circumstances may warrant. France could not reasonably expect any further undertaking, and it is reassuring to know that the British reply is regarded in Paris as quite satisfactory. Best of all, the unanimity of the British and French views in the present crisis is shown to be in no danger of being broken down.

The Very Idea!

LET'S BE PURER

Purity Is Now Becoming All The Rage In H.K.

PURITY is rapidly becoming fashionable, thanks to the League of Decency in America.

People who previously objected to it are now viewing it tolerantly.

In America they aim to ban anything that tends to make vice more attractive and virtue a back number.

Films must have no bedroom scenes, no bathroom scenes, no scanty clothing scenes, no demonstrations of passionate love, and no scenes of violence.

We look forward to the time when there will be no bathrooms, or if there are, when they are hermetically sealed and are referred to, when it is impossible to refrain from mentioning them, as the "B."

Soap, in these happy times, on account of its close association with the naked flesh, will be referred to as "S," and will be sold in packets labelled "Dog Biscuits." When retiring to the "B.R." (bedroom), the pure-minded man will not clothe himself scantily; but rather don an overcoat, and, having locked the door, stand up in the wardrobe and go to sleep.

Demonstrations of passionate love will be confined to hand-shaking, and then only under proper supervision.

Violence and bloodshed will not be permitted except in surgeries and dental parlours.

As for women—women will not be permitted at all. Or, perhaps they might be kept in compounds, wearing long cement-bag covering and stove-pipe leggings.

Anything calculated to arouse the baser passions, such as a knife or fork, will be used only by people of repute. Square plates, of course. We can never look at a round plate without blushing at its curves.

For this same reason the New Territory, Peak and Repulse Bay roads will be dynamited and relaid. Can't have all those curves.

If any reader can think of any other improvements, we will be glad to put them into effect, or ban them, or burn and prohibit and disinfect them.

We get a sensual pleasure out of banning things, and pure minds are full of things to ban.

We are determined to make Hongkong a purer and a better place.

It's the only way we can be sure of preventing all these infernal tourists from cluttering up the place.

Duke referred to him in a dispatch as "the ablest man in the Peninsula." A more distant relative was Admiral Sir William Johnstone Hope, who served under Nelson. Another was Admiral Sir Henry Hope, who captured the United States frigate, President, off Sandy Hook in 1813. The present Lord Linlithgow was brought up in the atmosphere of these great traditions.

LORD Linlithgow's appointment as next Indian Viceroy means that one of the chief draftsmen of the British Government's newly enacted scheme for self-government for the United Kingdom's Oriental dependency is now made responsible for putting this great project of liberation into effect. Lord Linlithgow already has first-hand knowledge of the people of India. He knows the essential part which pansantry, constituting as it does the vast majority of the Indian population, must play in any future Government at Delhi. "Make no mistake," he said in a recent debate on this question in the British House of Lords, "that the rural masses in India, for so many centuries unchanging, are at last on the move." He means to shape his policy to meet this in work he has to undertake in India, where, besides representing Britain, he will exercise extensive personal powers to prevent misuse until democratic institutions become firmly established. The pageantry of four crowded centuries of British history is reflected in Victor Alexander John Hope, second Marquis of Linlithgow, a tall, pleasant-spoken Scotsman, who has served as President of the Joint Committee of both Houses of Parliament on the Indian Reforms. Lord Linlithgow's home is at Hopetoun House, a beautiful eighteenth-century dwelling with lovely gardens sloping down to the Firth of Forth, a dozen miles from Edinburgh. Here one of his neighbours described him to the writer as "among the finest of the younger Scottish peers." Another neighbour said he was "absolutely unselfish in his desire to promote the public good."

Linlithgow, a small town in the neighbourhood of Hopetoun House, was the residence of the sovereigns of Scotland in mediaeval days. It was there that Mary Queen of Scots was born. The old palace, built between the fourteenth and seventeenth centuries, forms a square mass with low towers at the angles. Lord Linlithgow has done valuable public work in a number of directions. Born 47 years ago, he was educated at Eton, served throughout the Great War and has since taken a prominent share in British politics. In the capacity of deputy chairman of the Unionist organisation he was at one time responsible for the whole Conservative Party machine. He was chairman of the Committee on Distribution and Prices of Agricultural Produce (1923), which committee laid the foundation of the agricultural marketing organisations now being built up in Britain. As chairman of a Royal Commission on Indian Agriculture in 1926-28, he gained extensive knowledge on the spot of the conditions under which the masses in India pass their lives. This has stood him in good stead in the still wider study of India he has since made in connection with the reforms. The voluminous report issued by the Agricultural Commission has been government action on this immensely intricate question during the past six years.

Not the least of its importance has lain in its tracing the problem right back to its roots in the psychology of the Indian cultivator. "We have endeavoured," Lord Linlithgow said in it, "to make plain our conviction that no substantial improvement in agriculture can be effected unless the cultivator has the will to achieve a better standard of living, and the capacity, in terms of mental equipment and of physical health, to take advantage of the opportunities which knowledge, wise laws and good administration may place at his disposal." Behind this pronouncement lies the basic truth, that the measure of advance, whether agricultural or political, that is possible in India is conditioned by the state of the civilisation reached by those to whom reform is to be applied. The statement is illuminating as indicating Lord Linlithgow's attitude on the vast problem of the Indian Constitutional Reforms, which are looked upon as a model for co-operation among the nations generally on a world-wide scale.

Defending these reforms at a number of public meetings, his frankness and sincerity have done much to reassure British opinion, which was at one time widely distrustful of the scheme. One of his chief speeches was at a gathering in London, in December, of 1,500 Conservative delegates from all parts of the United Kingdom. On that occasion his balanced and temperate account of the situation proved an important contribution to the Government's case in favour of the reforms. Speaking as chairman of the Joint Committee, he said that the safeguards that had been introduced strengthened the position against the possibility of the failure of the Indian ministers adequately to discharge their duties. While refusing to claim that the course he advised would be free from anxieties, he argued successfully that it "followed the way in which the strength of Britain has always lain—namely that of the middle road." The judicial atmosphere he has thus injected into a situation in which feelings on both sides had become heated has helped perhaps more than anything else to reconcile British public opinion to the far-reaching recommendations of his committee, which have been no less than to give autonomy to 350,000,000 people. The general view has been that no plan for which Lord Linlithgow vouched could be otherwise than reasonable and well considered. The prominence of Lord Linlithgow's part in the scheme has been worthy of the traditions of the family to which he belongs. His father, the first Marquis of Linlithgow, was the Governor General of Australia when the Federated Commonwealth of that country was inaugurated. He thus created a precedent for his son, who, in presiding over the Indian Reforms Committee, has had to shape a still bigger federation within the British Empire.

The present Lord Linlithgow resembles his father in self-effacement. Correspondents who asked to interview him when the report of his committee appeared were told he was not seeing the press. It is on record that his father was no less personally diffident. The late Lord Roseberry, when Prime Minister of England, said of the first Marquis of Linlithgow: "He regarded himself as unequal to high office but proved himself more than adequate." Adequacy, indeed, is a Linlithgow quality many generations old. The faraway founder of the British branch of the clan was John de Hope, a merchant of Amsterdam, who first appeared in Edinburgh in 1537 in the household of Madeleine of Valois, Queen of King James V and mother of Mary Queen of Scots. This Dutch ancestry was so widely known that it was referred to in the British Parliament so long ago as 1867 by Benjamin Disraeli, the then Prime Minister. The occasion was a debate in which Mr. Disraeli's chief opponent was one Alexander Hope, a last-century relative of the Lord Linlithgow of to-day. Mr. Hope had slightly recalled Mr. Disraeli's Semitic origin, describing him as the "Asian Mystery." Mr. Disraeli replied scoldingly in kind, by alluding to the "Babian graces" of his assailant. The shaft was double-barbed. It aimed at both the ancestry and the popularity of the family. The Mr. Hope who was concerned in this wordy duel with the most formidable debater of his day was one of many members of the Linlithgow family who at different periods have risen to prominence in the state.

Sir Thomas Hope, Lord Advocate of Scotland, great-grandson of John Hope of Amsterdam, was one of Lord Linlithgow's direct ancestors. Sir Thomas took Cromwell's side in the civil wars of the Cavaliers and Roundheads. He told King Charles I outright that the Covenanters were "the most loyal and faithful subjects that ever a prince had." He was so influential that that he was able to do this with impunity. A contemporary chronicler says though the King's Commissioner, the Marquis of Hamilton, found him "one of his greatest troubles" he "dared not dismiss him." Sir Thomas was followed in the seventeenth century by Sir James Hope, who was described as "a good and upright judge" and "a man full of virtue, who kept many poor and indigent people in labour." Lord Linlithgow's great-grandfather, the fourth Earl of Hopetoun, was the close friend and one of the chief lieutenants of the Duke of Wellington throughout the long Peninsular campaigns against Napoleon. The London, Sept. 30. The Labour Party Conference, which opened at Brighton to-day, unanimously carried a resolution calling for legislation which would make the maintenance of the unemployed a completely national charge and provide adequate scales of benefit without the imposition of humiliating conditions.

The Conference draft resolution criticising a recent speech by the Prince of Wales, describing those deprecating military influence in the Officers' Training Corps in education as "cranks in authority," was considered, but the motion was referred back.

A section of the Executive report declaring that membership in the Independent Labour Party and the Independent Socialist Party was incompatible with membership in the Labour Party was overwhelmingly defeated.—Reuter Special.

military observers state that her garrisons on the Italian border have been brought to full strength with the arrival of four new Alpine regiments.

M. Pietri, Minister of Marine, has cancelled his trip to Brest for the launching of a new warship, and will attend an emergency Cabinet meeting, probably on Wednesday.

It is believed that M. Pierre Laval, the Prime Minister, will strongly advise Britain against proposing any drastic actions, fearing that a blockade of Italy will mean war.

BATTLESHIPS LEAVE

Four battleships, the Courbet, Jeanbart, Condoret and Paris, which were sent to the Channel ports in the Spring following German re-armament, are now at Toulon with the entire First Fleet, including eight heavy cruisers, 38 destroyers, and 35 submarines. Experts are studying measures to defend Djibouti, in French Somaliland, which is considered vulnerable to naval attack.—Special.

Chicago, Sept. 30. When bandits, believed to have been led by the notorious Alvin Karpis, entered the University State Bank, an employee, Mr. William Fleming, started shooting. He also released tear gas.

New York, Sept. 30. Van Sweringen Bros. were successful bidders at the auction sale of the collateral held by Messrs. J. P. Morgan and Co. as head of the banking syndicate holding $48,000,000 in notes of Van Sweringen's.

The collateral comprises over 51 per cent. of the Allegheny stock, which in turn controls the Chesapeake, Erie, Missouri and other railroads, as well as, indirectly, other vast Van Sweringen properties valued at $275,000,000.

As a result of the auction, Van Sweringen Bros. have regained control of their railroad empire.—Reuter Special.

STRIKING INCREASE IN CONSUMPTION

London, Sept. 30. The decision of the League Assembly to organise the study of the dual problem of raising nutritional standards and disposing of agricultural surpluses or potential output lends special interest to a report issued by the Potato Marketing Board on an experiment in the distribution of potatoes at a reduced price to unemployed, carried out recently for eight weeks at Bishop Auckland.

The total consumption of potatoes in the area rose 60 per cent., showing that their demand is much more elastic to reductions in price than had been generally supposed. The reduction in price in this case was 3d. per stone on the already low price of 7d. Purchases of potatoes by unemployed through the central warehouse under the scheme exceeded previous purchases of the entire population.—British Wireless.

Boulder Dam Dedicated

ROOSEVELT AT CEREMONY

TREMENDOUS WORK

Boulder City, Sept. 30. A strong defence of his public works policy as a means of throwing in the clutch and starting the whirling wheels of industry, was made by President Roosevelt in his dedicatory speech which marked the completion of the mighty Boulder Dam, the greatest work of its sort in America.

At the same time, the President uttered a warning that private enterprise must bear the main responsibility for maintaining increased employment.

He claimed that the Government's credit was safer and stronger than at any time in the past six years.

Boulder Dam, he went on, is one of the greatest achievements in the history of engineering. It had created the largest artificial lake in the world—115 miles in length. It protected the Imperial Valley of Nevada from floods and provided water to irrigate vast areas and produced at the same time an enormous output of electrical power, receipts from which source were expected to eventually repay every dollar of the $165,000,000 advanced for the work by the Government.—Reuter.

MACAO WEEK BY WEEK

SENIOR BARBOSA'S NEW POST

Macao, Sept. 29. A message received from Portugal states that Senior Artur Tannaginal Barbosa has been appointed to the office of Secretary General of the Ministry for the Colonies. He was Governor of Macao from 1922 to 1930.

A large number of friends and well-wishers of the Colonial Secretary, Dr. Joao Pereira Barbosa, congregated at Government House on Monday to congratulate him on his appointment as Acting Governor of Macao. The office of Acting Colonial Secretary has been taken by Dr. J. Ferreira de Castro, Director of Macao Lyceum.

Miss Beatriz Ramalho has returned from Portugal after a course of studies. She took her degree in the Arts Faculty of the Lisbon University and has accepted the appointment of teacher of Latin in the Macao Lyceum.

To solemnise the anniversary of the disastrous typhoon which visited Macao on Sept. 22, 1874, a Te Deum service conducted by His Lordship the Bishop of Macao was held at the Macao Cathedral on Monday.

A pretty wedding in which Miss Fernanda Baptista, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ignacio M. Baptista of Macao, became the bride of Mr. Carlos M. C. Vieira Ribeiro, son of the late Mr. C. M. C. and Mrs. Vieira Ribeiro, of Hongkong, took place to-day in Macao. The bridegroom is a resident of Hongkong.—Our Own Correspondent.

JAPAN'S NAVAL ARMS STAND

NO ALTERATION IN ATTITUDE

Tokyo, Oct. 1. It is probable that seven to fourteen days will elapse before Japan will reply formally to Britain regarding the convocation of a naval conference, since the Cabinet must approve the note. Japanese naval observers predict that Japan will express her readiness to participate, with the reservation that there will be no change in her fundamental policy as presented on August 26. Equality, with a common upper limit, is Japan's demand.

Armaments must be based on a basis of sufficiency for defence and insufficiency for attack.—Reuter.

Tigers Are Favoured To Win

IN WORLD SERIES BASEBALL

STATISTICS FOR THE SEASON

(Special to "Telegraph")

New York, Sept. 30. The Detroit Tigers have won the American Baseball Championship and will meet the Chicago Cubs in the World Series.

Gordon Cochrane has announced that "Schoolboy" Rowe will pitch in the first game, while the Cubs are expected to start with Lonnie Warlick for the opener.

The Tigers are 7-5 favourites to win the series and odds of 5-4 are offered on them to take the first of the five games.

However, there is a flood of Cubs' money on the market and it is forecast that the odds will possibly be even before the Series actually start. Altogether 500,000 applications have been received for the opening match and of these 50,000 have already been issued. —United Press.

BRUSSELS FIGHT FARCE

Claimed To Be for World Heavy-Weight Title

The farcical world heavyweight championship fight between George Godfrey, the coloured American boxer, and Pierre Charles, of Belgium, is to be fought on October 2 at the Palais des Sports, Brussels, for a purse of $1,725.

The winner will be world champion, according to the International Boxing Union, which refuses to acknowledge any of the edicts of the New York State Athletic Commission and National Boxing Association of America.

Max Baer, world champion, refused to travel to Europe to meet Pierre Charles, former heavyweight champion of Europe, so the I.B.U. declared the title vacant, and have sanctioned Charles and Godfrey to fight for it.

CHAMPION BOXER

ONLY RANKED SECOND IN FLYWEIGHT LIST

BENNY LYNCH & JACKIE BROWN

(By Geoffrey Simpson)

London, Sept. 4.

In the latest American ranking lists Benny Lynch, stocky Glasgow fighter, has been elevated to No. 1 position among the world's fly-weights, with Jackie Brown, official world champion, second.

How the compilers 5,000 miles distant, arrive at this estimate, seeing that Brown has held on to his championship for three years against all comers, may bewilder Lancashire, but not Scotland.

Perhaps it is a case of intelligent anticipation, for on Monday night in the Belle Vue ring, Manchester, not far from Brown's birthplace, the champion must risk his title against Lynch's busy fists.

SPECIAL TRAINS

Brown's British and European championships will be in the melting pot too, which explains why special trains are taking hundreds of Scotsmen to the battle, and why the remarkably high purse (for fly-weights) of £3,800 is being paid.

Lynch, in my view, represents the most formidable challenger Brown has had to face since he flattened Young Perez, from Tunis.

I am still convinced that Lynch beat Brown fairly and squarely that night in Glasgow when they met in a non-title match. But the referee, in spite of the fact that Brown had paid numerous visits to the canvas, made it a draw.

That still leaves us free to state that Brown was a decidedly lucky man to dodge defeat. His reputation for giving "back" performances in overweight contests is well known. But it is also well known that Brown takes considerable pride in his position, and when Lynch sent him spinning for a long count in round one I am sure he must have paid strict attention to business thereafter.

HEFTY BLOWS

Even so, Brown, turning on full speed, could not get on top, and Lynch, showing an impudent disregard for reputations, sent the champion down several more times from hefty thumps to the jaw.

This Scot of 21, who used to earn a few shillings a week as a messenger boy, is the best 8st. fighter we have had since Brown "arrived" some seven years back. He has a fast, shifty style, which gives him a gliding motion in attack. He can change his feet without losing power and reaches punching position by artful swaying and head rolling.

This makes him hard to time for a weighty blow. He is the type straight-left-hand boxer do not like. They get unsettled through missing too often and leaving themselves open to body punishment.

Brown missed an awful lot against Lynch. So did the stylish Tommy Pardee, five times amateur champion, whom Lynch stopped in workmanlike style.

He is a hard puncher, this Glasgow boy, and wonderfully quick with his counter blows. If he can wreck Brown's long-range boxing, as he did in Glasgow, I think he will win. The only doubt I have about him is his strength at the weight. Though only 5ft. 5ins., Lynch is solidly made, but he has been told me once that 8st. was easy for him.

All of which does not alter the fact that Brown can box brilliantly. When he is moving round in swift circles and "seeing" his target well he can make his left hand answer all questions. To do this, he must escape those speed-destroying body onslaughts of Lynch.

Altogether, it is a most fascinating fight—and Brown has trained for it as never before. He is installed in a fine old country mansion with an imposing team of professional helpers, boats to row and horses to ride.

Lynch, who is taking only £900 of the £3,800 purse, is training in a small gymnasium in a humble part of Glasgow, with the aid of enthusiastic amateur sparring partners.

Lynch beat Brown on a technical knock-out in the second round in the bout on September 9.

DEFEAT OF OPEN GOLF CHAMPION

A. H. PADGHAM BEATS PERRY

IN EXHIBITION MATCH

London, Sept. 2.

A. H. Padgham (Sunderidge Park) beat Alfred Perry (Leatherhead), the British Open champion, by 7 and 6 in a 36 holes professional exhibition match yesterday on the Selsdon Park Club's course near Croydon.

Padgham held a lead of four holes at the end of the first round. For the first 18 holes he had a score of 71 against 76 by his fellow Ryder Cup international, and for the full round in the afternoon he totalled 71 against 73.

In the Open championship this year Perry and Padgham were respectively first and second, separated by four strokes.

Padgham won the opening hole, where Perry was short with two shots, but after a series of halves he was twice bunkered at the 6th, where the Open champion drew level. Padgham, however, took the 6th in four, and turned with an advantage of one hole. Padgham then won the first two holes on the homeward journey.

Perry obtained a win in three at the 12th, but Padgham resumed his three holes advantage by taking the 13th, where he holed from six yards for an "eagle" three. He became four up at the 15th. Although Perry won the 16th, the Open champion was four down at the end of the round.

Padgham produced some brilliant golf in the second round. He got down a putt of nine feet at the 7th and again at the 8th. Perry was somewhat unlucky at the 9th, for his tee-shot went out of bounds. A win in four at the 10th made Padgham 7 up, and the match ended in his favour two holes later.

Mansfield Town F.C. transferred their left full-back, A. Ashley, to Sheffield Wednesday at a four-figure fee.

"Rounders Is Not A Bad Game" Says Gem

GIRL TENNIS PLAYER GOOD COPY FOR THE NEWS HOUND

Miss Gem Hoahing, aged 14, Chinese junior champion of Middlesex, is already a tennis star, says a London Evening Standard special correspondent.

Enraving the title at Harrow the other day, against stiff opposition, she took 61 games in a row—a world's record for championship tennis.

She is being talked of, photographed, interviewed.

"Not since Lenglen..." begin the critics.

At home in Twickenham, Miss Gem is merely a schoolgirl, rather shy and implish, much like her fellow-pupils at the Twickenham County High School.

Ordinary—yet not quite ordinary.

"ALL THIS FUSS"

Mrs. Hoahing received me guardedly. She has begun to have views on fame. "All this fuss—it has such possibilities for harm," she said.

We found Gem in the garden, or rather she found us. Mr. and Mrs. Hoahing stood on the lawn and called, "I can never find her," said Mrs. Hoahing.

Gem, emerging from a shrubbery, received the visitor shyly. We shook hands. I saw a sturdy, graceful child, with a jet black fringe cut in the Chinese way, and amusing eyes.

"Do you play ping-pong?" asked Mrs. Hoahing. "Would you like to take her on?"

Gem strolled through the kitchen garden to the greenhouse, where the table was. The garden was lovely, and the hothouse tomatoes monstrous.

LONDON PLANS MEMORIAL

TO GREAT ANGLER OF FORMER YEARS

CHARLES COTTON

Charles Cotton, contemporary brother-analog to the great Isaac Walton, is to be given a memorial in the heart of London.

There are three memorials in different parts of the country to Walton, but none of any kind has been erected to the name of Cotton, a famous fly-fisherman and scholar who died in 1687 and was buried within the precincts of St. James's Church, Piccadilly.

A suggestion has been made that an enamelled plaque or stain-glass window should be placed in this church.

Cotton spent his younger days in writing poetry, but he was often a fugitive from his creditors and sought refuge on numerous occasions in a cave in Dovedale.

After the Restoration he began to publish his poems and Walton visited him at Beresford Hall in the Peak District, where Cotton had built a fishing house.

On a stone in front of this house are the combined initials of Walton and Cotton.

Walton was master of the art of fishing in the slow rivers in the south of England, but he recognised that Cotton had the greater knowledge of fly-fishing in the swift streams of the north country and he asked him to write a treatise.

When Walton was preparing his fifth edition of his "Compleat Angler" he asked Cotton to write a second part containing "Instructions how to Angle for a Trout or Grayling in a Clear Stream," and this second part, published in 1676, has since formed one book with the first.

Like Walton's first book it is written in dialogue and describes, in eloquent phrases, the fishing amid romantic scenery.

Among those who have subscribed to the proposed memorial are Lord Beresford, a keen angler and chairman of the Thames Conservancy Board, Lord Glanusk, Sir Arthur Guinness-James and Sir Rudolph Smith.

The final did not see such good golf from either player. If Miss Falkner were in a bunker it appeared to be odds on her remaining there, and Miss Pemberton missed two woefully short putts after nearly holing several long ones.

The lead changed hands twice before Miss Falkner, out in an approximate 40, turned 1 up. Miss Pemberton had chances to win the next three holes in a row, but she won only the 11th. Still, she became one up at the 14th, and halved the 15th, where Miss Falkner seemed to be feeling the strain of playing someone smaller, younger, and longer handed—capped than herself.

But then, the Surrey player pulled herself together, won the 16th in 2, the 17th in 5. She was perhaps lucky to run over the bridge across the ditch, and after Miss Pemberton had played a fast lovely chip to the 18th, Miss Falkner replied with a good run up, and sank the 6ft. putt for the half and the championship.

The cups and prizes were presented by Captain Stroyan, including the Stoke Court Cup given to the player staying at that country club who remained longest in the championship. This went to Miss Pemberton. The Craig Cup scratch bogey round was won by Miss Peggy Edwards, of Manchester.

Miss Falkner had an advantage of three years from all three semi-finalists, and that at 18 years, means a great deal. Also she is a four handicapper, so that on paper the championship was hers by right. But paper and actuality are often far removed from each other, and the very knowledge of what should be done often makes the doing of it the harder. Miss Falkner appeared to be conscious of this in the final, but she fought down the feeling courageously and so deserved her win.

The runner-up is a most promising little golfer with a well-controlled swing and an admirable temperament to match it. Before long Chesham should find her a useful member of the county, and in the meantime she has three more years in which to win the girls' championship.

Stoke Pages looked its best in bright sunshine, and the course was perfect after a deluge of rain during the night.

First off of the semi-finalists were Miss Falkner and Miss Johnson. All through the week the latter has played free, delightful golf. Yesterday she was possessed by the clutching hand which makes every muscle taut, destroys length, and gives the shots an uncomfortable lurch for the left-hand side of the course.

Miss Falkner has played too much golf not to make the most of such a chance, and when she holed an excellent putt for a 4 at the 8th she was 3 up. Miss Johnson retaliated with a good one to win the 9th, and Miss Falkner, in turn, turned 2 up.

After the turn at Stoke is where pressure can so often be brought to bear, and Miss Falkner brought it 4, 3, 4, and she won all those holes so that when her opponent failed to complete a clever run up by holing the putt at the 11th, she was downy. Her approach putt stone dead at the 14th was a perfect finish.

In the other semi-final it was again an over-anxious, vice-like grip which lost rhythm for Miss Stroyan, whilst Miss Pemberton, keeping beautifully straight and plucking well, refused to be dismayed by anything—even the 3, 4, 4, for 7th, 8th, and 9th which made Miss Stroyan turn 2 up.

Then Miss Stroyan seemed to tire—perhaps from the perpetual practice swing which is her habit—and losing six-out of the next seven holes, went down by 4 and 2 to Miss Pemberton.

SECURES VICTORY ON LAST GREEN

Mediocre Display By The Two Finalists

(By ELEANOR E. HELME)

Miss Peggy Falkner, of Worplesdon, is the new girls' golf champion, for yesterday she beat Miss Sonia Swinburn Johnson, of Stoke Pages, by 5 and 4 in the semi-final and Miss Joan Pemberton, of Bramhall Park, 1 up in the final.

Miss Pemberton won her semi-final 4 and 2 from Miss Sheila Stroyan, of Worplesdon.

Miss Falkner had an advantage of three years from all three semi-finalists, and that at 18 years, means a great deal. Also she is a four handicapper, so that on paper the championship was hers by right. The lead changed hands twice before Miss Falkner, out in an approximate 40, turned 1 up. Miss Pemberton had chances to win the next three holes in a row, but she won only the 11th. Still, she became one up at the 14th, and halved the 15th, where Miss Falkner seemed to be feeling the strain of playing someone smaller, younger, and longer handed—capped than herself.

staying at that country club who remained longest in the championship. This went to Miss Pemberton. The Craig Cup scratch bogey round was won by Miss Peggy Edwards, of Manchester.

Miss Falkner had an advantage of three years from all three semi-finalists, and that at 18 years, means a great deal. Also she is a four handicapper, so that on paper the championship was hers by right. But paper and actuality are often far removed from each other, and the very knowledge of what should be done often makes the doing of it the harder. Miss Falkner appeared to be conscious of this in the final, but she fought down the feeling courageously and so deserved her win.

The runner-up is a most promising little golfer with a well-controlled swing and an admirable temperament to match it. Before long Chesham should find her a useful member of the county, and in the meantime she has three more years in which to win the girls' championship.

Stoke Pages looked its best in bright sunshine, and the course was perfect after a deluge of rain during the night.

First off of the semi-finalists were Miss Falkner and Miss Johnson. All through the week the latter has played free, delightful golf. Yesterday she was possessed by the clutching hand which makes every muscle taut, destroys length, and gives the shots an uncomfortable lurch for the left-hand side of the course.

Miss Falkner has played too much golf not to make the most of such a chance, and when she holed an excellent putt for a 4 at the 8th she was 3 up. Miss Johnson retaliated with a good one to win the 9th, and Miss Falkner, in turn, turned 2 up.

After the turn at Stoke is where pressure can so often be brought to bear, and Miss Falkner brought it 4, 3, 4, and she won all those holes so that when her opponent failed to complete a clever run up by holing the putt at the 11th, she was downy. Her approach putt stone dead at the 14th was a perfect finish.

In the other semi-final it was again an over-anxious, vice-like grip which lost rhythm for Miss Stroyan, whilst Miss Pemberton, keeping beautifully straight and plucking well, refused to be dismayed by anything—even the 3, 4, 4, for 7th, 8th, and 9th which made Miss Stroyan turn 2 up.

Then Miss Stroyan seemed to tire—perhaps from the perpetual practice swing which is her habit—and losing six-out of the next seven holes, went down by 4 and 2 to Miss Pemberton.

THE FINAL

The final did not see such good golf from either player. If Miss Falkner were in a bunker it appeared to be odds on her remaining there, and Miss Pemberton missed two woefully short putts after nearly holing several long ones.

The lead changed hands twice before Miss Falkner, out in an approximate 40, turned 1 up. Miss Pemberton had chances to win the next three holes in a row, but she won only the 11th. Still, she became one up at the 14th, and halved the 15th, where Miss Falkner seemed to be feeling the strain of playing someone smaller, younger, and longer handed—capped than herself.

But then, the Surrey player pulled herself together, won the 16th in 2, the 17th in 5. She was perhaps lucky to run over the bridge across the ditch, and after Miss Pemberton had played a fast lovely chip to the 18th, Miss Falkner replied with a good run up, and sank the 6ft. putt for the half and the championship.

The cups and prizes were presented by Captain Stroyan, including the Stoke Court Cup given to the player staying at that country club who remained longest in the championship. This went to Miss Pemberton. The Craig Cup scratch bogey round was won by Miss Peggy Edwards, of Manchester.

HOME SOCCER PROSPECTS

NO. 37--FULHAM & PROMOTION

WHAT THEY NEED

(By CHARLES BUCHAN)

With their neighbours, Chelsea and Brentford, in the senior ranks, Fulham occupy a position of splendid isolation as the only Second Division team in the West of London. It is time that they made a bold bid to join their more-favoured colleagues.

Under the guidance of manager Jack Peart they will make another attempt to reach the First Division for the first time in their history. I must admit, though, that I have not much faith in their ability to succeed.

More driving force, especially in away matches, is needed in the Fulham side. The cleverness is there, but the great-hearted spirit necessary when fighting an uphill battle has been missing, at least in recent years. Perhaps a change of tactics will work the miracle.

NOTABLE NEWCOMER

As there are likely to be few changes in the team I cannot visualise Fulham with a promotion chance in the coming campaign, though they should establish a good position in the top half of the table. Away points are doubly valuable where promotion is concerned and they may squander their opportunities on their opponents' grounds.

The most notable newcomer is Dennison, an inside-left from Nottingham Forest, previously with Newcastle. Others include Burdett, a hardy North-Eastern centre-forward, and Miller, a little outside-left from Northumberland, who has attracted the attention of several clubs.

Fulham will have the services of Arnold and Hammond, the county cricketers, for the opening matches, but even with their assistance the forward line may prove the least satisfactory part of the team. A reshuffling of positions may be necessary before a workmanlike combination is discovered.

On the beautiful turf at Craven Cottage I expect Fulham to prove superior to the majority of their opponents. I fear, however, that new blood must be transfused into the side before the First Division ambition is realised.

NO. 38-BIRMINGHAM

Competent Players Available

Birmingham enter upon the new season with good heart. They finished up last season with an excellent side and plenty of capable reserves. They unquestionably possess a good range of competent players.

During the close season they have parted with McGurk, their Scottish international, who proved a poor bargain. He has gone to Bristol City, and Bradford has also been transferred to that club. Bradford has done Birmingham magnificent service, and his farewell appearance at St. Andrew's will long be remembered. Then Pearson has gone to Southend, Bulger to Lincoln City, and Hubbard to Luton Town.

W. A. H. Duff and Gordon Lum, two former Hongkong residents, who figured against the Colony lawn tennis interlopers in Shanghai.

The only newcomers are W. Hughes, of Archers Corinthians, Carmarthen, a left back, and C. L. Keene, a right back, who has been playing with the local B. S. A. team, while forward there is a smart outside-right, Young, of Shawfield, Glasgow. Young gave a very clever display in the game between the Birmingham Association Juniors and the Scottish Juniors at The Hawthorns last May.

Grovever is much stronger and better. His leg has received regular massage during the last few weeks, and he hopes to be perfectly fit at the opening of the season. Guest and White made their places secure last season, and Jones (C. W.) is nearly certain to lead the attack. The defence is strong all round.

The terracing on the ground has been greatly improved, and the turf is in excellent condition. A new director has been elected, Councillor W. H. Dare, a highly capable young business man, and a former active player for the Moor Green Club.

The list of players is:

Goalkeepers: H. Hibbs, F. E. Clinek, W. Turner.
Backs: E. Barkas, H. Boston, W. Hughes, C. L. Keene, A. Lilley, W. Steel.
Half-backs: C. Butler, C. Calladine, R. Archers, A. G. Derbyshire, T. Fillingham, G. Lee, J. Loughran, G. R. Morrall, L. Stoker, J. Sykes.
Forwards: J. Beasley, J. Devine, D. J. Dearson, W. F. Guest, A. T. Grosvenor, F. Harris, C. W. Jones, F. Morris, S. H. Moffatt, S. J. Small, F. Shaw, F. R. White, F. Young.

NO. 39-NOTTINGHAM FOREST

Money Wisely Expended

Nottingham Forest's outlook for the coming season, which opens with a visit from Bury, can well be summed up in the statement of the chairman, Mr. H. R. Cobbin, who says: "With the new material and the retention of the pick of last season's players, the chances of promotion are as good as ever they have been."

No doubt, the Forest Committee realise now that a gamble in the direction of purchasing a few good men to strengthen certain obvious weaknesses would have paid last year, but they stayed their hands too long.

Experience gained during the last two seasons has told them that the chief weakness was lack of duplication of positions, and since last April the £2,000 profit derived from a successful run in the F.A. Cup, plus a little more, has been judiciously expended on the buying of players.

The newcomers are D. Edgar, right full-back from Sunderland; F. Wallbanks, full-back from West Ham; O. Bowden, inside forward from Derby County; E. Stubbs, outside left from Wrexham, and J. Getty, a 17-year-old outside right from Vale of Leven. The Forest have not yet succeeded in their quest for a constructive goal-scoring centre-forward, but they have two useful men in Dent and Burdett, and the last-named, who is only 21, should improve.

BADMINTON MEETING

PROFIT MADE LAST YEAR

REV. MR. HIGGS RE-ELECTED

A successful year's working was reported at the annual general meeting of the Hongkong Badminton Association held yesterday afternoon in the board room of the South China Morning Post, and presided over by the Rev. J. R. Higgs, the President.

The acting Hon. Treasurer, Mr. F. H. Kwok reported a profit on the year's working of $38.31.

The meeting decided that the League be conducted in the same manner as last year, and that no player who has played two matches in a higher sub-division be allowed to play in a lower sub-division, without the consent of the Executive Committee.

It was also decided that the League start on November 15, and entries are to close on October 21.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Rev. J. R. Higgs; Vice-President—Mr. E. de Sousa; Hon. Vice-Presidents, Mr. E. Abraham, Commander T. A. Hussey, Mr. Justice I. E. Lindsell, Dr. H. D. Matthews, Mr. T. A. Pearce, Mr. E. M. Raymond and Mr. E. V. M. R. de Sousa; Hon. Secretary, Mr. L. D. Skinner; Hon. Treasurer, Mr. F. H. Kwok.

All affiliated clubs are requested to nominate a member for representation on the Executive Committee, and send in their nomination to the Hon. Secretary.

A vote of thanks to Mr. F. H. Kwok and Mr. L. D. Skinner was accorded at the meeting for their work during the past year.

One I Love

by LAURA LOU

CHAPTER XXXIX

"I suppose," Rolf said, "I couldn't persuade you that I didn't intend to do that—I mean that wasn't what—oh, hang it all, I'm sorry!"

Janet did not answer. She had drawn away from him and in the darkness he could not see her eyes. Only the shadowy oval of her face.

"Well, I guess you don't believe me," he said. "It's true. It's just like everything else lately. Everything goes wrong. Oh, Janet, I'm in such a mess!"

"What's the matter, Rolf?"

"Everything."

"You mean there's something wrong at the office?"

"I mean there's something wrong everywhere! At the office. At home. Everywhere I go. I had a row with McPhail this morning. Well—almost a row. Blamed me because we lost the Liberty job and because Horner's wouldn't come through with a contract. Can I help it if they change their minds? Oh, what's the use! It's the same thing all the time!"

"But why should he blame you for that? Are you handling contracts?"

"Well, you see," Rolf began awkwardly, "after we got back from White Sulphur Springs Betty thought I should have a more important job. She talked to her uncle and he agreed that I could take over some of the better contracts. On commission. But with times the way they have been it's only natural we'd lose a little business, isn't it? Everyone else has."

"Yes," Janet said doubtfully. "I suppose it is."

"That's what I wanted to talk to you about! His tone was eager now. "Do you think I could get a job at 'Every Home'?" They've never taken on anyone in Hamilton's place, have they? I'd like to cut loose from the Atlas Agency. That would show them! Just because I came there without much experience nobody will listen to me. If I could get a job like Hamilton's—"

"I don't know," Janet put in doubtfully. "They've cut down on the staff. Of course I don't know how things are going lately but when I left Mr. Hamilton said they were going to try to get along without taking anyone else on."

"But they can't do that!"

"You could try, of course. Mr. Chambers would be the one to see."

"Chambers? I'll remember. That was another thing I wanted to ask you. Oh, boy, I hope I can put this over! I'll show those birds yet."

"I'm afraid they wouldn't want to pay very much."

Rolf's laugh was bitter. "Well, I'm not getting so much as this. That's another thing that makes me sore at McPhail. It takes an awful lot to go around with this crowd of Betty's."

"Yes, I should think it would."

"It takes a lot of dough and—"

I don't know! Sometimes I get pretty tired of it. Parties or something going on every night. I'd rather stay home lots of times but Betty always wants to go."

"Shouldn't think you could do much work and go to parties every night."

"I can't. I've tried to tell Betty that but she won't listen. Betty and I haven't been getting along so well the last few weeks. You see she—"

"Please!" Janet protested. "I'd rather not hear about it."

"All right," he moved nearer. "It's like old times talking to you, Janet. It's a fellow to get things off his chest. You always understand about everything."

The moonlight on the patch of grass had shifted and was coming nearer to them. Janet said, "I think I'd better go in now, Rolf."

"What's the hurry? I haven't had a chance to talk to you for weeks. Don't go yet!" He caught her hand.

"Oh, but I must. Really! It's getting late and someone will be looking for me or the telephone might ring. Lucy isn't here to-night."

"All the more reason to stay!"

She shook her head. "No, I can't."

"You're not mad about anything, are you?"

"No."

"I mean—about what happened?"

"What? Rolf, I'm not mad. And I hope you get the job at 'Every Home' only I can't stay any longer to talk about it. I—I really must go!"

"Please!"

"But I must!" She pulled her hand from his. "Good night, Rolf," she said and fled up the walk toward the house.

Inside the hall was dark and she stood for a moment, leaning against the door. She closed her eyes and trembled her hands over them tightly but that did not help. Her memory. Nothing could do that!

Nothing!

Slowly she made her way up the stairs to her room.

Mrs. Curtis put down the letter she was reading. She said, "Janet, you're looking pale this morning. Don't you feel well?"

Morning sunlight streamed through the bedroom window. Mrs. Curtis, wearing a negligee of orchid silk, sat near the window and looked up at her secretary.

"Why, yes, Mrs. Curtis. I didn't sleep well but I'm feeling all right."

"You don't look it. I think you should see a doctor."

"Oh, but I'm nothing. Really, I feel perfectly all right."

Mrs. Curtis said, "Hm! Well, I'm sure I don't want you getting sick. If you don't look better to-morrow I want you to telephone Doctor Roberts."

An hour later Janet slipped into her own room, brought out a box of rouge and touched her cheeks with colour. She was careful to do the same thing next morning and nothing more was said about a visit from the physician.

Jeff telephoned Wednesday afternoon. He said, "Get something to celebrate, Janet. The Boss came across with a raise. Do you suppose you could go to dinner with me?"

"I'd love to but I'm afraid I can't get away."

"Well, then, how about seeing a movie? That's about all there is to do in town."

She said she thought she could manage that and agreed to be ready at eight o'clock.

It was promptly at eight that the little roadster appeared before the door of the brick house, Janet answered the ring, wearing her hat and coat, and a few minutes later they were off.

The movie proved to be only mildly entertaining. It was a gangster affair with a great deal of shooting and underworld warfare. As they came out of the theatre Jeff said, "Whew! I think I need air after that. What about you?"

"Let's drive out on the hill road," Janet suggested. "I like it out there."

They got into the roadster and headed for the hill road. But this time when they came to the turn overlooking the lights of the city Jeff did not stop.

Janet said, "Tell me about the raise. How did it happen?"

Nobody could have been more surprised than I was," Jeff told her. "The Boss just called me in this morning and said that from now on I was to take charge of the department and the salary would go up $5. Honestly, for a minute I thought he was kidding."

"I'm awfully glad, Jeff. You work hard and you deserve it."

"Well, I'm going to try to. He asked how things were going for her. 'I'm going away from Lancaster,' Janet announced.

"What?"

She nodded her head affirmatively. "I've thought it all out and it's the only thing for me to do. Should have gone long ago. I'll stay a few more weeks so that I'll have more money and then I'm leaving."

"I'll settle that later. There are lots of places to go. I'm sick of Lancaster and everything in it. The people—"

"Do you mean that?"

Janet turned and put a hand on his arm. "I didn't mean it about you, Jeff. No matter where I go I'll never forget you."

There was silence between them. All at once the young man let out an exclamation and put his foot on the brake. On the road ahead Janet saw two figures—a man and a girl. There was something dark behind them.

"Let's see what this is," Jeff said as the car came to a halt.

CINEMA NEWS

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

William Powell and Ginger Rogers is the double-star value of the first time. This strong, romantic combination appears in "Star of Midnight," a romantic mystery drama based on an Arthur Somers Roche story brought to the screen by RKO-Radio, and showing on Wednesday at the King's Theatre. Powell and Miss Rogers are seen as a unique amateur detective duo who slip with police in the effort to solve a perplexing mystery with more at stake than mere orchids for cleverness, for they are caught in the web of circumstance. Powell, as a brilliant attorney, is the "Sherlock" of the combination, and Miss Rogers, as a youthful society beauty, is the amazing "Watson." Romance, sparkling comedy, mystery and suspense are factors in the swift-moving, thrills-packed story. Included in the supporting cast are: Paul Kelly, Ralph Morgan, Leslie Fenton, George E. Stone, Vivian Oakland, Russell Hopton and J. Farrell MacDonald. Stephen Roberts directed.

"The Secret Bride"

To add to the cycle of dramas that depend upon the Law Court for their biggest scenes, comes "The Secret Bride," next change at the Queen's Theatre, with everything exposed, including sordid murders, dirty politics, shady intrigues and clandestine marriages. Warren William is the lawyer who is set up against the proposition of prosecuting the Governor for bribery, with the added complication that the Governor is the father of Barbara Stanwyck, the girl he loves. Everything seems pretty hopeless but all turns out well in the end. Miss Stanwyck, Glenda Farrell and Mr. William turn in such grand performances that the picture is made convincing and most entertaining. Arthur Byron and Grant Mitchell lend their usual adequate support.

"Times Square Lady"

"Times Square Lady," a thrilling, fast-moving comedy drama of New York night life, is to be the attraction at the Oriental Theatre to-morrow and Thursday. It features a new romantic team, Robert Taylor and Virginia Bruce. With them is a notable cast that includes lovely Helen Twelvetrees, Isabel Jewell, Nat Pendleton and others. The picture has all the intrigue of Broadway, New York, for background. It tells the story of Toni Bradley, daughter of the big boss of the city's night life, who is suddenly attracted to a man named John, who has been in jail for a long time. Toni is history resented by her father.

"Woman in the Dark"

A hero who risks prison and the hangman's noose to help the girl he loves is the central character in "The Thin Man," one of the most thrilling mysteries ever screened. Filmed by Select Productions, it recounts the adventures of John Bradley, an ex-convict on parole for manslaughter, and Louise Loring, a woman who cannot call herself free. These two are thrown together by a stroke of fate and entangled in a continuous turmoil of adventure. The very hazards that are designed to keep them apart only add fuel to their love. Louise is pursued by Billy Robson, who believes he has a right to demand her affections, and a sheriff whose daughter is infatuated with him. Together, they find refuge in a former prison-mate of Bradley's, but before long they are wounded while attempting to escape. Louise risks the loss of Bradley's love for her in order that she may forestall the perpetration of a crime for which would bear the guilt. Ralph Bellamy, one of Hollywood's premier good-bad men, plays Bradley, and Fay Wray is Louise. Melvyn Douglas portrays Robson, and Roscoe Ates has a comedy role. Ruth Gillette Granados, Reed Brown, Jr. and Nell Rosen directed from a screen adaptation by Sada Cowan.

"The Raven"

"The Raven," which is now showing at the King's Theatre, is a stirring, imaginative film, co-starring those two chill-chasing stars of Frankenstein and Dracula, Karloff and Bela Lugosi. It requires a lot of dancing for Hollywood to tackle Poe, and especially his "Raven," which remains the most sensitive thing he ever wrote. However, the screen adaptation by David Boehm deserves commendation. The plot of the story is purely imaginative, of course, with the symbol of the raven supplying the motif. Dr. Vollin is suffering from a torture complex and sets out to demonstrate his theories. His principal victim is an escaped criminal who comes to him to have his face changed. The doctor distorts the man's features and makes a slave of him, then he casts a spell over a beautiful girl and when her father tries to save her he is himself caught in the delicious machinations of the mentally unbalanced doctor. Karloff and Lugosi provide the thrilling highlights of the picture, while an unusually good supporting cast includes Irene Ware, Lester Matthews, Inez Courtney, Samuel Hinds, Spencer Charters, Maude Turner and Ian Wolfe. There are some excellent photographic effects in the film and the sets are unusually vivid and impressive. Readers of Poe will doubtless find many familiar details in "The Raven," which has been faithfully transcribed to the screen. Louis Friedlander was the director.

"Gold Diggers of 1935"

While "Gold Diggers of 1935" playing to delighted audiences at the Queen's Theatre, is funny, there is a serious romance running through the plot, with Dick Powell and Gloria Stuart portraying the lovers. Frank McHugh and Dorothy Dare also have a serio-comic love affair. Incidentally, Gloria Farrell, the only "lady gold digger" in the story, takes Hugh Herbert over the hurdles over a piece of change. Powell, a medical student who works as a clerk in a fashionable summer hotel, is engaged by Alice Brady, parsimonious wealthy widow, to escort her daughter, Gloria Stuart, on a round of festivities during the summer, as a reward for Gloria's promise to marry Hugh Herbert, an eccentric millionaire who writes articles about snuff, in the Fall. Alice's son, Frank McHugh, has been shipped by four divorced wives for $400,000, and when he falls for Dorothy Dare, the hotel hostess, Alice is a bit annoyed. She is more annoyed, however, when she discovers Adolphe Menjou and Joseph Cawthorn respectively a theatrical producer and a scenery builder, have let her in for a $40,000 deficit on a Milk Fund show she sponsored. Of course, when she the wedding of Dick and Gloria.

"Abdul the Damned"

Showing at the Alhambra from Wednesday, "Abdul the Damned," which is one of the greatest and most lavish films which B.I.P. has ever made, tells the story of Abdul Hamid

II, Sultan of Turkey, the last of the Eastern tyrants who was eventually deposed for extreme cruelty to his subjects. One of the most vicious and cunning men who ever lived, he had himself exiled or executed on the slightest pretext, until the Young Turks rebelled, rose up in arms, and finally Abdul himself was banished.

It is this part of his life which the B.I.P. film depicts. It reveals the cloak of mystery which surrounds much of the intrigue which was rife around the court of Abdul, and shows the various happenings which led up to the rebellion of the Young Turks.

Fritz Kortner plays the role of Abdul Hamid, a part which gives this great actor the opportunity to display his forceful acting, an opportunity of which he takes full advantage, giving one of the most brilliant seven performances witnessed for many a day.

Nils Asther also gives what is claimed to be his most brilliant performance ever in the role of Kadar Pasha, the Chief of Police of Constantinople
—conspirator, schemer and murderer.

Adrienne Ames, one of Hollywood's loveliest and best-dressed stars, is there, as an Austrian dancer and singer, whilst the magnificent cast also includes such well-known names as John Stuart, Esme Percy, Charles Carson, Alfred Woods, Annie Edmund,
Clifford Heatherly, H. Saxton, Snel,
Patric Knowles, Frederick Lloyd,
Walter Rilla and Robert Naylor.

Otto Kanturek, the brilliant cameraman of "Blossom Time," was responsible for the photography of the film, and Karl Grune, one of the Continent's recognised "ace" directors, was chosen for the direction.

SWATOW TENSION JAPANESE WARSHIPS IN HARBOUR

Shanghai, Sept. 30. Japanese destroyers, are reported to have been despatched from Hongkong to Swatow "to protect Japanese lives and property," owing to the tension arising from Chinese taxation on Japanese rice imported into Swatow allegedly in contravention of the existing treaties.

Meanwhile semi-official circles have announced that Rear-Admiral Shimomura, Commander of the Fifth Torpedo-boat Flotilla, is "remaining near Canton to watch the attitude of the Chinese authorities."—Reuter.

Recent Friction

A recent Canton report stated that the authorities at Swatow seized 300 bags of rice at a Chinese firm, whereupon the Japanese Consular authorities protested to the Chinese military administrators. The cargo was subsequently returned to a Japanese company. Two Japanese gunboats were sent to Swatow from Amoy on September 17, allegedly in connection with this dispute.

Six Destroyers Arrive

Canton, Sept. 30. It is confirmed that six Japanese destroyers have been rushed to Swatow, where the situation is officially held to be grave, and liable to lead to serious developments in the event of a failure to settle the taxation dispute by negotiations.

The Japanese consulate here deny, however, that Admiral Shimomura is "remaining near Canton." He is at present on board the Tatsuta at Swatow. The developments are causing most serious anxiety, Chinese circles believing that the Japanese navy may take direct action against the Chinese efforts to "suppress smuggling."

As against the Chinese attitude, the Japanese authorities regard the taxation now imposed as a violation of existing treaties, and unless the seizure and confiscation of Japanese rice is discontinued the Japanese navy may find it necessary to "carry out their duty."

Reuter learns authoritatively that the Japanese Consul General here has filed a strong protest to the Chinese authorities against the recent detention of Japanese rice, demanding its immediate release, but the request has so far not been complied with.

Apparently the firm attitude taken by the Chinese has precipitated the despatch of the Japanese warships.

It appears that the trouble started in the middle of September when the Chinese authorities detained Japanese rice estimated at a value of $10,000, at Kiyang and Chaoan, on the ground that it had been imported into the interior without paying the provincial inland tax.

It is alleged that there have been six similar incidents, which despite the representations made by the Japanese Consul, remain unsettled. It is understood that over 500 Japanese subjects are engaged in the trade at Swatow, most of whom are Formosans.—Reuter.

LABOUR DARTY CRISIS BRITISH POLICY WELL SUPPORTED

London, Sept. 30. Two questions, sanctions and the future leadership of the Socialist Party overshadow all others at the Socialist Conference at Brighton to-day.

Serious divisions of opinion are admitted, and there have been innumerable discussions behind the scenes during recent days.

The Executive, headed by Major Atlee, Mr. Dalton and Mr. Herbert Morrison, are endorsing the Trade Union Congress vote at Margate and plump for the League using its full force to restrain Italy.

Mr. George Lansbury and his supporters oppose the use of force in any form.

Sir Stafford Cripps, and the Socialist League, denounce the League of Nations as an "imperialist thieves' kitchen," and demand a conference of the whole of the working class movement to define its attitude towards war.

Labour leaders generally agreed in repudiating Sir Stafford Cripps, but the moderate element, which fears that sanctions would result in a world war, is reported to be much increased during recent weeks. Nevertheless a large majority is expected to vote in favour of sanctions.

It is considered that Mr. George Lansbury's position will then be most difficult, though nobody wants him to resign.

It is understood that he will do nothing until he has consulted the Parliamentary Labour Party, who have the sole right to choose the leader.

The Conference agenda includes the traditional demand for the abolition of the House of Lords, the nationalization of the Banks and also an attack on the Prince of Wales, for the recent statement in support of the officers' training corps.—Reuter.

Boldness Urged

London, Sept. 30. One of the most momentous annual conferences ever held by the Labour Party opened at Brighton to-day.

Mr. W. A. Robinson, in the course of his presidential speech, declared that Labour must not shrink from the logic of its considered policy.

"If the League of Nations failed in this crisis of its history, it would destroy itself, and the hope of the nations. Lawlessness will stalk a class ridden world. Under its cover imperialism and militarism will hold sway and dictatorship will flourish."

Organised Labour did not believe that sanctions necessarily involved war. In the event of hostilities the withholding of supplies, if vigorously applied, would be able to bring war to a speedy end; but should Italy defy the League, then there could be no alternative but for the League to restrain Italy by threat of force.—Reuter's Special Service.

Presentation to Mr. Henderson

London, Sept. 30.

At the opening of the Conference this morning a presentation, which took the form of a handsome illustrated record of his life was made by proxy to Mr. Arthur Henderson, in recognition of his long and distinguished services as Secretary to the Party.

It is understood that during the present week a replica of the bust of Mr. Henderson by Strobl, now in the Hall of the League of Nations at Geneva, will be presented to him.

In making to-day's representation Mr. George Lansbury reported that the condition of Mr. Henderson, who is in a nursing home, is more hopeful, and that they could look forward to his returning, strong and vigorous, to resume his work in the Party and in that bigger sphere of international peace and goodwill.—British Wireless.

MONGOLIAN AFFAIRS

HOPE FOR SETTLEMENT OF CHIEFTAINS' QUARREL

Peking, Sept. 30.

Hopes for a peaceful settlement of the dispute between Prince Shih, Chief of the Western-Banner Mongolian Tribe, and Prince Yung, President of the Mongolian Administrative Council, are now brightened by reports from Mr. Ngo Chi-kuang, delegate representing the Central Government to Peking, Suiyuan, to persuade the disputing parties to remain at peace, pending further instructions from Nanking.

Mr. Ngo has now reported that both parties have promised to discuss a settlement.

Reports from a well-informed source state that the present dispute is believed to have been stirred up by foreign influence.

Four Japanese aeroplanes were seen flying over the Western-Banner districts yesterday, and are alleged to have been seen dropping pamphlets.—Wah Kiu Yat Pao.

ETHIOPIAN MOBILISATION MAY HASTEN WAR

BORDER CLASH INEVITABLE

ITALIAN PLANES CROSS FRONTIER

FRANCE PROMISES TO ASSIST BRITAIN

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance,
1894. Received, Oct. 1, 8 a.m.)

Rome, Sept. 30.

It is learned in authoritative quarters that the Ethiopian order for general mobilisation may force Italy to order her troops to advance in order to ensure the safety of the Italian colonies in East Africa.

It is claimed that Emperor Selassie is unable to control his feudal lords, who are the leaders of his fighting forces, and that it would be impossible for him or them to avert a frontier clash when 1,000,000 Ethiopians are in arms.

Afternoon newspapers to-day state that the Italians' test mobilisation of 10,000,000 men, women and children is "very near."

The newspapers are also attacking Great Britain, saying that any nation which condemns mobilisation desires to accept responsibility for a European war.—United Press.

TRIBES SAVAGE

Awashi, Sept. 30.

The general mobilisation order has unleashed savage emotions amongst the Ethiopian warriors, who are always fanatical.

In the mountains every man and woman is obtaining ammunition and is determined to kill as many Italians as possible.

A massacre, says an observer, will be the only way to quell Emperor Selassie's followers.—United Press.

BOMBERS OVER FRONTIER

Addis Ababa, Sept. 30.

Italian bombers have flown over Ethiopian territory with the object of frightening the Ethiopian patriots, and have actually fired with machine guns.

Hostilities are therefore believed to be imminent.

It is learned that the Ethiopians have been ordered to avoid pitched battles and to fight from ambush, following the principles of guerrilla warfare and sniping at the enemy.—United Press.

RUMOUR OF ATTACK

Geneva, Sept. 30.

Rumours that the Italians have crossed the Ethiopian frontier have caused League officials to prepare for the sudden convocation of the Council to consider penalties. A League spokesman said that the Council would be called to an emergency meeting the moment the reports were verified.

Telegraphic verification from Ethiopia will be acceptable by the League.

The League must ascertain first whether the reported Italian troop movements are preparations for invasion or an accomplished act of aggression, and the latest reports have indicated they were merely the former. In Rome there is no knowledge of troop activities at Asaba, Ualul or Asmara.—United Press.

London, Sept. 30.

The Secretary of State for Scotland, Sir Godfrey Collins, announced in Edinburgh to-day his intention to set up a committee to inquire into the marriage laws of Scotland, and the changes, if any, which are desirable, with particular reference to marriages at Gretna Green.—British Wireless.

FRANCE TO AID BRITAIN?

WILL FIGHT IF ITALY ATTACKS

WARSHIPS MOVING

Paris, Sept. 30.

It is learned officially that Great Britain has asked for France's attitude in the event of any nation attacking Britain while she is enforcing League sanctions.

An official spokesman said: "France will be forced to aid Britain if Italy attacks her while she is enforcing the League's sanctions."

Officials indicated that such a specific act would call for military and naval aid under the existing agreements. The question of mutual assistance is now under discussion by the nations' representatives.—United Press.

REPORT DENIED

Paris, Sept. 30.

Official circles deny any knowledge of the reported British request for assurance that France would come to the aid of the British Fleet if it were attacked by Italy in the Mediterranean.

It is now authoritatively stated that an urgent meeting of the Cabinet may possibly be held tomorrow and observers are of the opinion that the rush to hold this meeting is inspired by the desire of the French Government to reach a decision which can be presented to the British Government when it meets on October 2. It is probably on the subject of French assistance in the event of an attack upon Britain that the Cabinet will debate policy.—Reuter.

MEXICO TO EUROPE

The first persons ever to have engaged in a round-the-world pleasure flight arrived here yesterday. They are Fritz Bieler, former German-war-ace and now a naturalised Mexican citizen, and Howard L. Farquhar, Secretary of the British Legation in Mexico City.

The two adventurers have completed the first and most hazardous portion of their journey by successfully flying from Mexico City, via the United States, Alaska, Anadir (Siberia), Manchukuo and Peking.

The two airmen will remain in Hongkong for two days, after which they will continue their flight to Bangkok. They are not adhering to a set itinerary, but are flying by easy stages, remaining in cities or outlandish centres when they feel in the mood for stretching their legs.

From Bangkok they will fly to India, hunting, shooting and fishing all the way. The itinerary call for subsequent flights to Persia, Egypt and finally to Europe.

GHASTLY CRIME

DOUBLE MURDER IN SCOTLAND

London, Oct. 1.

A gruesome discovery, pointing to a double murder by a madman, is baffling the police of Moffat, Dumfriesshire.

A number of parcels containing human remains have been recovered from Moffat on the main Carlisle-Edinburgh road.

Doctors have ascertained that the remains are those of an adult man and woman but the bodies appear to have been deliberately mutilated with a view to removing all trace of their identity.

Almost the only clue at present in the newspapers in which the remains were wrapped.

Police believe the murderer cut up his victims and took them to this spot by motor, throwing them over the bridge into the ravine as he passed.—Reuter.

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, October 1, 8 p.m.)

Shanghai, Oct. 1.

The Japanese Naval Attaché here has issued a statement denying that marines have landed in Swatow.

He adds that the Japanese fleet "is prepared to take serious measures to cope with the situation arising out of the illegal pressure brought by the Kwangtung Government authorities and applied to Japanese subjects."

He referred to the allegedly illegal collection of taxes on imported rice.

"It is a matter of common knowledge," this spokesman continued, "that the spirit of opposition to Japan and dislike of Japan prevailing among the Chinese is the greatest obstacle in the path of normalisation of Sino-Japanese relations."—United Press.

NERVOUSNESS IN JAPAN

Tokyo, Oct. 1.

Considerable nervousness has been aroused in Japanese circles due to lack of information with regard to the situation at Swatow, where it is reported, Chinese officials have increased the duties on all Japanese imported goods.

It is also stated that officials have abused shopkeepers handling Japanese imports and have threatened to harm Japanese. However, the Government has not received a complete report of the affair, and meanwhile Japanese gunboats are remaining near Swatow, prepared for any emergency which may arise.

Some reports say the situation is becoming serious, but this is denied by others.—United Press.

REGAIN RAILWAY CONTROL

VAN SWERINGENS MANOEUVRE

HEAVY LOSS FOR BANKS

New York, Sept. 30.

An auction "sale" packed with interested observers was held to-day when the Van Sweringens interests regained control of the Alleghany Corporation, their key holding company, by bidding $3,121,000 for a block of shares given as collateral on a loan and consisting of 2,064,483 Alleghany shares.

Two other substantial blocs of miscellaneous securities needed for the control of the rail empire were bid for by Hall, Garten and Company, evidently as a speculation.

One other group bid against the Van Sweringens. They were a creditor, banking group qualified to place protective bids with a view to preventing securities from going for too little.

The Van Sweringens were represented by Colonel Ayres, a prominent Cleveland banker, Mr. G. A. Ball, an Indiana industrialist, and Mr. C. A. Tomlinson, a Cleveland shipowner, were disclosed as Van Sweringens associates, combined to form the mid-American Corporation for which Colonel Ayres bid in the securities.

Total bids for all securities amounted to $4,703,000, which was a large loss to the banking syndicate which sold the securities in default of notes and accrued interest aggregating some $50,000,000, the largest part of which is understood to have been extended by J. P. Morgan and Company, although the amounts contributed by the various banks was not made public.

NEW COMPANY

After the auction Mr. O. P. Van Sweringen issued a statement saying: "The Mid-America Corporation is composed of friends and associates of O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, among whom are Ball and Tomlinson."

The total of securities bid in by Hall and Garten amounted to $1,582,000, and consisted of blocs of a few thousand shares of Chesapeake Corporation, Erie Railroad Preferred, Missouri Pacific, Otis Steel, and Lehigh Valley Coal Company.

Aside from the essential bloc of Alleghany stock, the Van Sweringens bid in for a large assortment of notes and shares of various affiliated companies, including the Van Sweringen Corporation.—Reuter Special.

ETHIOPIA NO LONGER OBJECT OF FUN

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance,
1894. Received, Oct. 1, 8 a.m.)

Rome, Sept. 30.

The prospect of imminent mobilisation in Ethiopia seems to have made the people here pause and think.

They no longer make fun of Ethiopia, but talk seriously of the fact that that country is capable of mobilising a million and more men, compared to the quarter million Italy has at her disposal in Eritrea and Italian Somaliland.

Meanwhile the preparations for the defence of Italy's coast goes on at home and troops still leave for the East African adventure. Another 15,000 fighting men left Naples to-day, bringing the total of the week to 30,000.

BRITISH TROOPS SUFFER

CASUALTIES IN MOHMAND WAR

TWO OFFICERS KILLED

Simla, Oct. 1.

Two British officers have been killed and three wounded and between 70 and 80 other ranks are casualties in fighting with the Mohmands, according to an official communique.

The communique explains that certain tribes were allowed to return to their own country after expressing a desire for peace. The Government then suspended all operations over Sasi and the tribes were invited to join the tribes and send in their jirgas.

However, while reconnoitring from Wuchu Jawar camp British troops were heavily engaged by Lashkars. The tribesmen suffered very seriously.

This flouting of attempts to establish friendly contact with the upper tribes has caused the Government to reconsider its whole attitude towards the tribes.

THE CASUALTIES

Killed.—Captain G. Meynell and Lieut. A. P. S. Rendall;

ANOTHER VERSION

London, Sept. 30.

An ambush of troops, with heavy casualties, is reported from the North-West Frontier of India. A few weeks ago, a force of British and Indian troops occupied a position in the Mohmand area during negotiations with the tribes, following disturbances in that region.

Early yesterday, a company engaged on a reconnaissance movement westwards from Nahakki Pass was attacked by tribes in greatly superior numbers, which had been in close concealment.

NEUTRAL OBSERVERS

Geneva, Sept. 30.

The three experts who have been studying the proposal to send observers to Ethiopia have not yet finished their report, but it will be ready and in the hands of the Committee of Thirteen when that body meets on Thursday.

The advice of the French explorer M. Marcel Griaule is being sought.

The problems of finding suitable landing grounds and airmen of the Ethiopians and "gunning" them to the spot in the short time available, present great difficulties. It is generally believed, therefore, that the experts will probably report unfavourably against the despatch of a mission.—Reuter.

EMPEROR COMMANDS

Addis Ababa, Sept. 30.

Ras Kassa, commander of Ethiopia's northern army of 250,000 men, has made preparations for a war lasting two to three years, having laid in large supplies of food which is buried in various spots around his headquarters.

An aeroplane service, which will keep him in close touch with the Emperor, has been arranged. Planes will reach him twice weekly.

The Emperor will probably supervise operations on all fronts, directing Ras Kassa, the fighting at Ogaden and in the east in Dessaye.—Reuter.

Hand-to-hand fighting took place and there were heavy casualties on the British side. One British officer was killed and two are missing, one believed killed. Two Indian officers are missing and three British and two Indian officers were wounded. In other ranks, thirty-four are reported missing and forty-six wounded.—British Wireless.

Blonde Beauty in New Flight Record Bid

CAPE AND BACK, 16,000 MILES IN WEEK

MR. DAVID LLEWELLYN, one of the most experienced instructors in British flying, starts from England this week on an attempt to fly to Capetown and back, 16,000 miles, in a week.

His companion and co-navigator will be his ex-flying pupil, Mrs. Jill Wyndham, the beautiful blonde wife of a naval commander. She has had only sixty hours' flying.

His machine, the first of its type, and untested will be the Heck, a black-and-gold monoplane, polished smooth as glass.

Fifteen months ago Mr. Llewellyn put Mrs. Wyndham into the air on her first solo flight. Her husband, Commander Wyndham, came often to Hanworth airfield during the next few months to watch his wife earning her wings.

A warm friendship sprang up between the three.

Earlier this year Mr. Llewellyn had Atlantic flight plans. But disaster wrecked his hopes.

On the night of April 8 the air-liner he was ferrying developed engine trouble. While he was gliding gently to a forced landing a tree loomed suddenly out of the darkness. For two months Mr. Llewellyn's body was encased in hospital plaster.

His face still bears the scars of his accident.

MRS. JILL WYNDHAM won't get much sleep.

"Not Much Sleep"

The Heck was withdrawn from this year's King's Cup race for the attempt. Extra tanks have given the luxuriously finished machine a cruising range of 1,100 miles.

"We're not going to get very much sleep," Mrs. Wyndham said. It was difficult to imagine this slim, quiet woman sitting drawn-eyed behind a roaring engine racing hour after hour southwards through Africa.

"The first day is going to mean eighteen or nineteen hours solid flying," she continued. "We have to time our arrival in Egypt so as to be able to leave Cairo at dawn after a few hours' rest. Egyptian and Sudanese regulations will not allow us to fly by night."

"Then while Mr. Llewellyn gets a little sleep in the air I shall try to keep the Heck on its course. What a responsibility!"

"I have no navigator's licence; I've just got what he taught me."

"My Big Worry"

Mr. Llewellyn is not afraid she will lose the way.

"We have blind flying instruments and a gyroscopic compass," he said.

"My big worry has been in getting permission to leave this country

Aid In Inquiries Into "Rackets"

New York, Sept. 1.
A unique honour has been paid to a negro lawyer, Mrs. Eunice Hinton Carter. Mr. Thomas Dewey, the special prosecutor in charge of the investigation of New York "rackets," has appointed her a member of his staff of legal experts.

He believes she will be able to make a valuable contribution to his efforts to collect information about gambling in Harlem. Mrs. Carter will be the only woman assisting Mr. Dewey, who has already selected nine lawyers, and is about to select 10 more.

More than 3,000 have applied for posts, and he sat up late last night interviewing 150 of them in his office in the Woolworth skyscraper.

Special screens have been erected to protect people who call to give information from the eyes of spies sent by gangsters anxious to intimidate witnesses. All desks and filing cabinets in the office will be sealed every evening to prevent the theft of incriminating documents.

Mrs. Carter, who is 36, is the wife of a dentist and has a son aged nine. She has been interested in social work in Harlem since she left Smith College, where she secured an M.A. degree. As a young woman she studied at Strasbourg, and followed law courses at Fordham University in the evenings after leaving college.

Her father, William Hinton, was founder of the Y.M.C.A. work among negroes.

A WORD TO Women

Suffering That Can be Avoided.

No woman should allow nervous weakness to get the upper hand of her; if she does, worry will mar her work in the home and torment her in body and mind.

Day after day spent amid the same surroundings is enough to cause irritability and depression; but there are other causes, so every woman knows, that tend to make her nerves become run-down. A change would benefit her jaded system and rest might improve her nerves, but best of all for weary, run-down women is a course of Dr. Williams' pink pills. These pills create new blood, rich with the elements on which the nerves thrive; it is in this way that they restore regular health, increased energy, and strong, steady nerves.

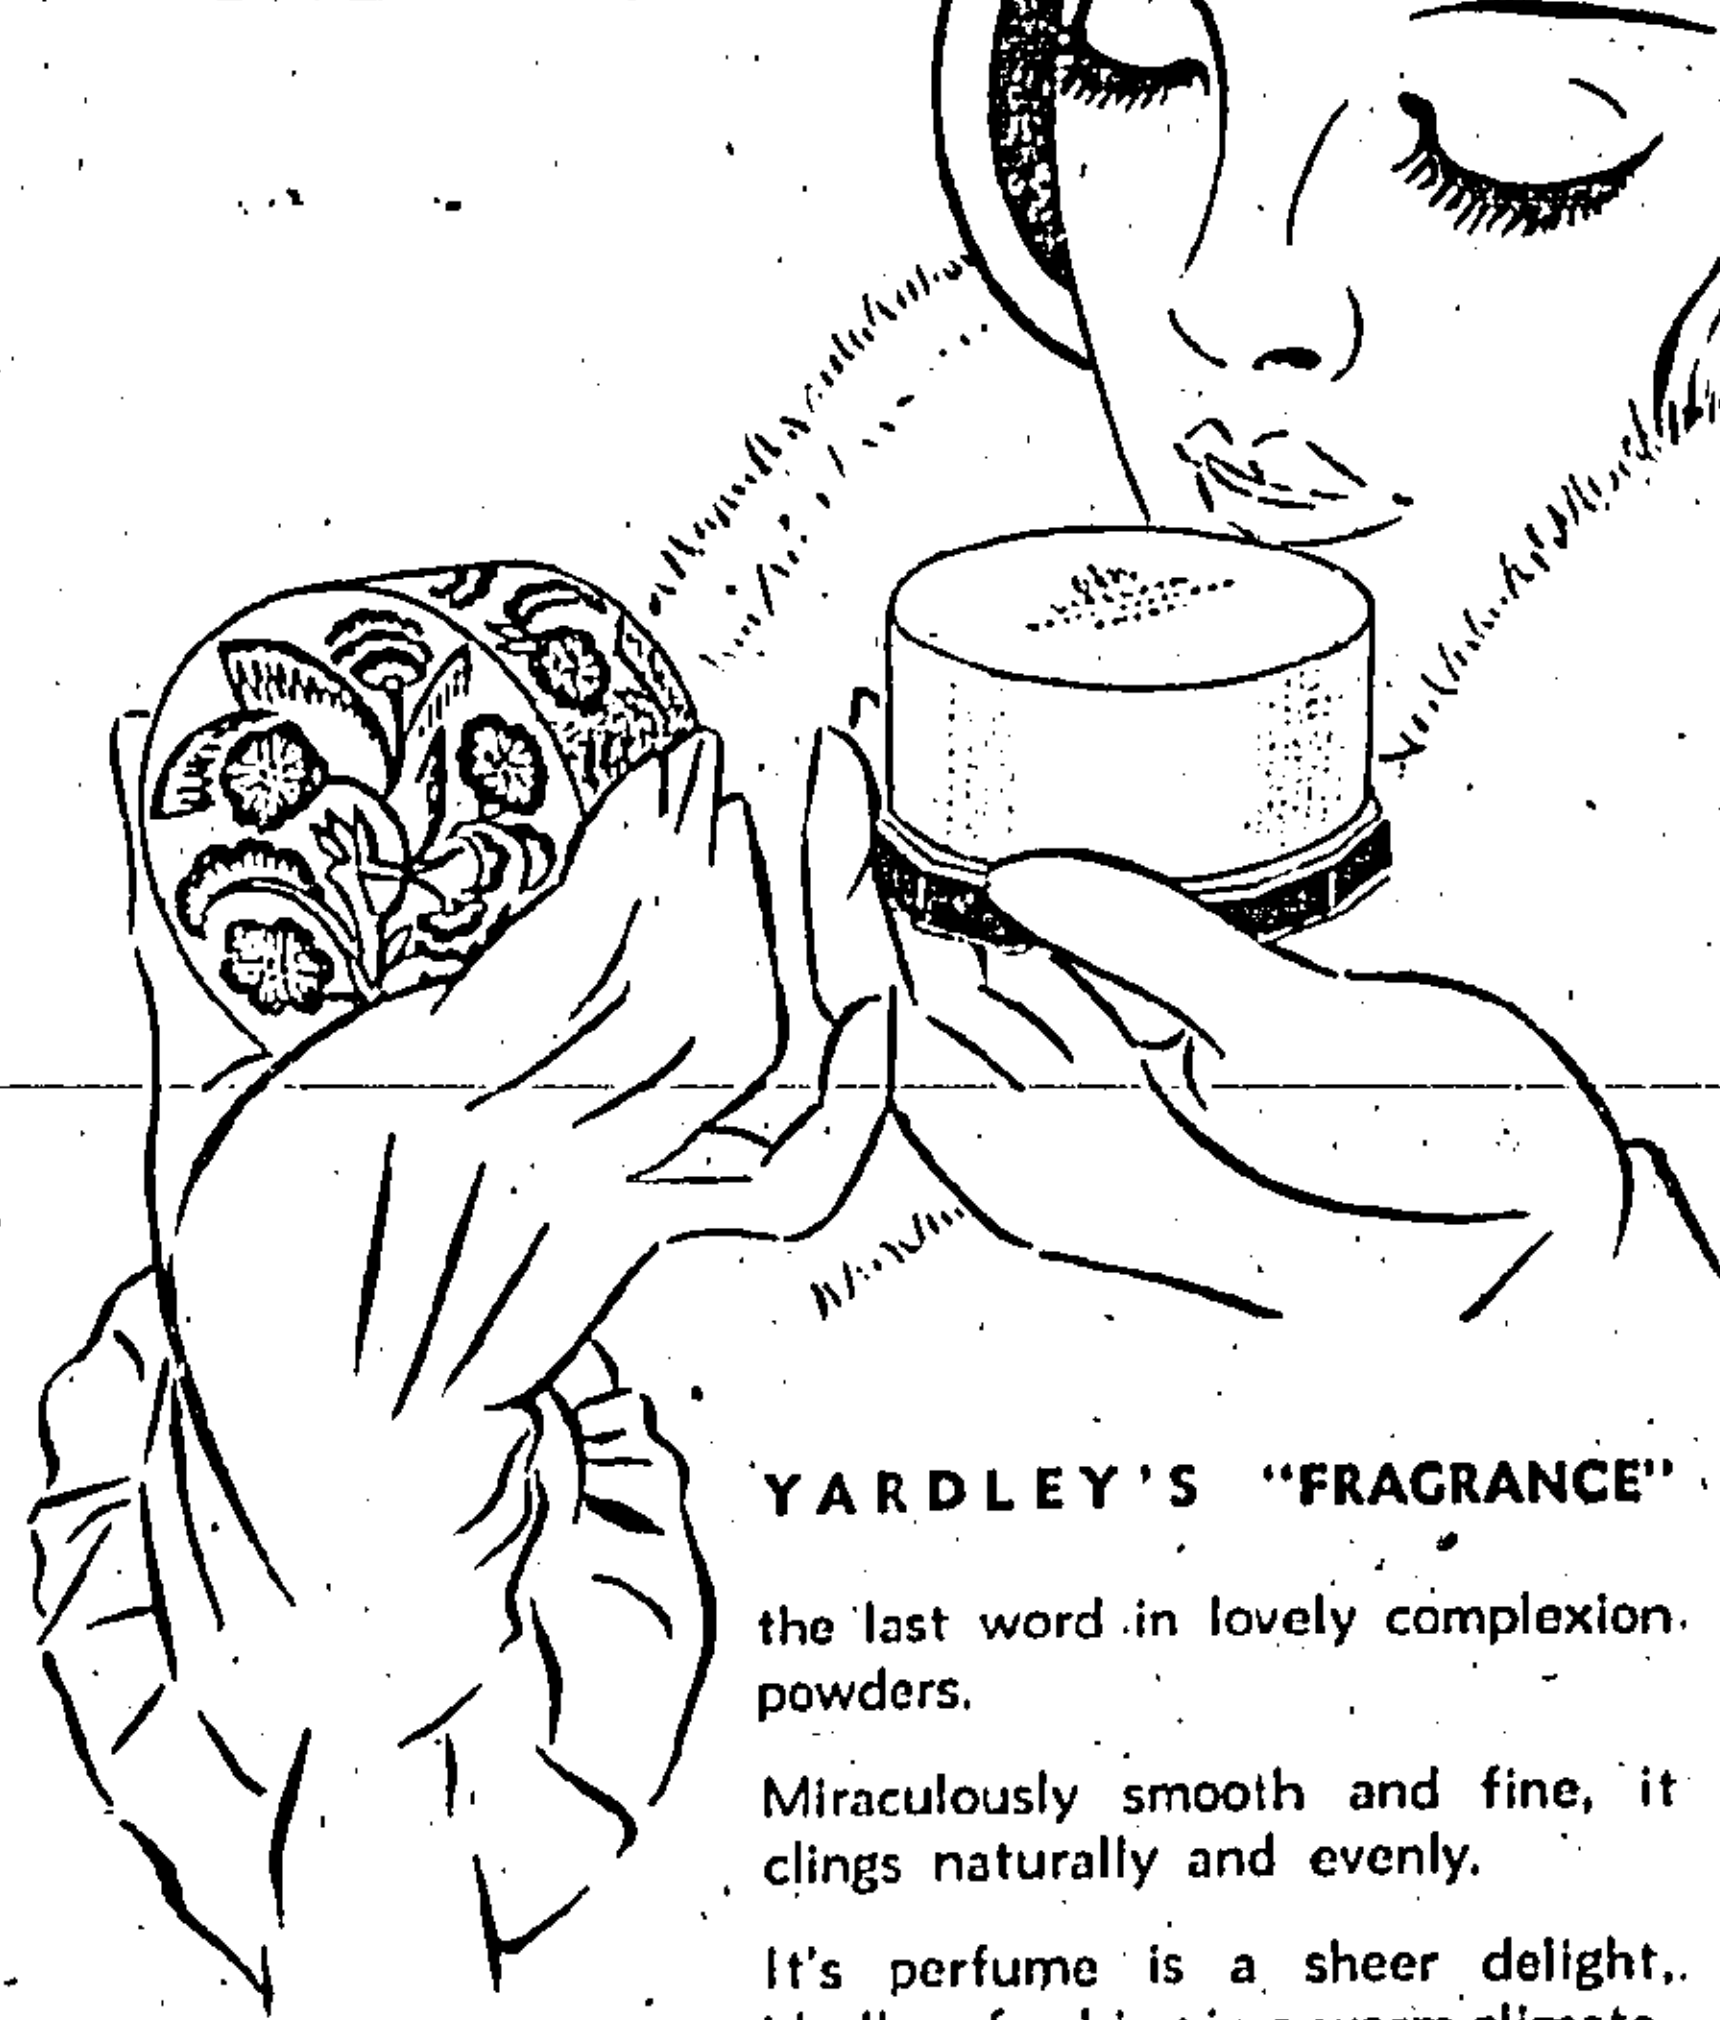

Women know as well as doctors that their health depends upon a full supply of blood. Nervousness, sick headache, pains in the back and limbs, poor appetite and depression are evidence of a bloodless state. It follows, because Dr. Williams' pink pills make new rich blood, that they are a boon to weak, bloodless women.

COMMON COLD CURE

Scientist's
Five-Minute
TO ANY TEST

After years of struggle and patient research, a British scientist claims to have discovered a certain cure for the common cold, long recognised as one of the worst menaces to the health of mankind.

By means of rays emanating from a rare metal the amazing powers of which he has proved to his own satisfaction and to that of his fellow-workers, Mr. W. G. Moore, a Maxman, has cured within a few seconds the most obstinate head, throat and nose colds.

"When one realises that the common cold costs this country alone millions of pounds in money every year—because of the loss to trade by illness of workers—to say nothing of the mortality figures, one can measure the worth and significance of my discovery," he said.

Instantaneous

"Just about five years ago," he went on, "I discovered that the rare metal, titanium, alloyed with tungsten, gave greater penetrations and bactericidal action—and that these rays, allied with autonomic therapy, were almost miraculous in the way in which they cured the common cold."

"My ray is derived from an electric arc, produced by currents passing through the titanium. I treat patients through the nasal organs, and the cure is practically instantaneous."

"I am ready to submit my treatment to any test—in public if need be—and I guarantee that I can cure any cold within the space of five minutes."

Mr. Moore is a former associate of the late Dr. Hall Edwards—the "X-Ray Martyr."

For some years past he has been working at the Institute of Autonomic Therapy, 3, St. James's, London.

"My colleague Mr. Andre Harpman and I have proved," he said, "that autonomic therapy and the titanium ray can not only cure colds, but can banish some diseases hitherto pronounced incurable."

He Spent
PyramidsEERIE WATCH IN
LONELY GRAVE

The first white man ever to spend a night in the Great Pyramid has returned to London.

He is Mr. Paul Brunton, the author and investigator of Eastern psychic mysteries. He is back home after eight months' research into archaeological and psychic matters connected with ancient and modern Egypt.

By special permission of the Egyptian Government, he was allowed the eerie experience of spending a night alone in the King's Chamber of the Great Pyramid.

"It certainly was an eerie experience, and for several days afterwards I was far from well," Mr. Brunton said.

Sat in Darkness

"I sat in total darkness throughout the night, concentrating and making my mind completely receptive to the psychic vibrations."

"After about six hours I had a most extraordinary experience. I saw in a vision two ancient High Priests in their ceremonial robes of their religion, who showed me a hitherto undiscovered and secret passage inside the Pyramid—but the entrance to it I was unable to discover."

"I was told that the Chamber into which this passage led contained prehistoric records, describing the unknown history of an earlier mankind, an Atlantean race. I was able to confirm by personal experience, my theory that in this room the High Priests put their pupils into hypnotic trances wherein their spirits were released from their bodies and they were shown that the soul definitely survives death."

Mr. Brunton's long and detailed researches into the origins of the Pyramids and Sphinx have convinced him that these monuments were originally put up by the Atlanteans—that is, by an emigrant colony from the now sunken Continent of Atlantis.

He believes that the overwhelming of Atlantis caused the Sahara sea-bed to emerge as dry land.

There are ten million of them in India—they are India's policemen—and they all have the same family name, Singh. Cattle King Who Began

Melbourne, Sept. 15.
SIR SIDNEY KIDMAN, Australia's "cattle king," has died; aged seventy-eight.

When he was thirteen he left home to seek fortune. He owned a one-eyed horse, a saddle, a bridle, a rug, and five shillings in cash. He died owning pastoral land nearly twice the size of Britain.

Kidman's family were originally farmers in East Anglia, and there is a record of a land transfer to a Kidman in the days of Queen Elizabeth. His parents emigrated to Australia and settled near Adelaide where Sidney was born.

The boy began to roam the countryside. Early in life he missed two fortunes in Broken Hill mines and became a postman-contractor. He bought a one-fourteenth share in the original Broken Hill Company, which he sold later for £150.

That share is estimated today to be worth £6,000,000.

Risked His Life

The boy got his first start as a cattle owner when a great drought sent many penniless stockraisers to the coast.

Much abandoned stock survived the drought, and Kidman bought a ranch in the affected country. He took his life in his hands when he went to round up strays in a country inhabited by hostile natives, but he won through.

He collected 3,000 horses and 500 cattle.

Soon he was the most powerful cattle man in Australia.

He never drank. He was known to be the "gamest loser" in Australia.

In 1908 he went to London; needed men. He asked London omnibus drivers if they would come to Australia. Many of them did. All prospered.

Sir Sidney was knighted in 1921 for war services.

FOUR COUNTRIES
SHARE PROFITSSEALER RETURNS WITH
$1,800,000 PELT CARGO

Seattle, Sept. 24.
The Navy supply ship Sirius, bringing a $1,800,000 cargo of sealskins back from the Pribilof Islands of the Bering Sea, also brought with it five live seals for Balboa Park Zoo, San Diego, this year.

The seals were youngsters, captured at the bleak islands where the great herds congregated every year for the breeding season. They travelled in crates supplied with ice daily to maintain low temperatures.

Commander J. C. Cunningham was relieved to be free of his cargo when he reached Seattle. The seal pelts, taken under supervision of the U.S. Government, were shipped to St. Louis for processing and sale. Receipts will be divided among the governments of the United States, Great Britain and Japan, the American share much the largest. —United Press.

ARTIFICIAL RADIUM

Will Be

—Professor Claims

San Francisco, Sept. 1.

ARTIFICIAL radium, until now only the dream of scientists, will shortly be manufactured on a commercial basis from table salt, phosphorus, and other cheap, abundant substances.

The world's leading atom-smasher, Professor Ernest Lawrence, announced this discovery—which will revolutionise the war on cancer—at a meeting of the American Chemical Society in San Francisco to-day.

Safe Injections

Artificial radium will not only be much cheaper than natural radium, which at present costs about £10,000 per gramme, but it will also be two or three times more powerful.

It is expected that factories will in a few months be turning out the artificial radium.

At present physicians dare not inject radium into the tissues of human beings since radium is not only poisonous but has the power to radiate for years, accumulating trouble resulting in death.

Salt radium, however, is spontaneously destroyed in a few hours, and can therefore be injected into cancerous tissues.

In A Day's Work

Just what artificial radium will cost as a marketed product has not yet been determined, but it will unquestionably be small compared with the cost of natural radium.

Professor Lawrence, who makes the product by atomic bombardment of table salt by high-voltage electricity, is now able to produce cheaply in a ten-hour working day enough of the synthetic substance to equal in potency thousand pounds.

If Roger
Casement
SPARE HIS LIFE

Roger Casement, executed for high treason during the war, was betrayed into British hands by the Germans.

Even after his capture he might have saved his life but for the fact that he refused to tell a lie.

These facts, made known for the first time, are contained in Roger Casement's own private papers, now in the possession of his family.

When Casement was taken prisoner after he had landed on the Irish coast from a German submarine, powerful influences got to work to save him from the death penalty in view of his previous services to the Empire.

After long negotiation, it is revealed a member of the Government of that day intimated that if Casement advanced the plea of insanity the Crown would accept it and he would be ordered to be detained during His Majesty's pleasure, with the certainty of being released after the war.

This offer was conveyed to Casement in Pentonville prison, but he refused to permit this defence to be put forward, saying he preferred death to a lying plea.

Tricked By Germans
Almost the last thing Casement wrote in his diary was his profound conviction that he had been tricked by the Germans.

The Germans wanted him to form an Irish Brigade, recruited among prisoners of war, but they had no intention of transporting this brigade to Ireland to fight for Irish independence.

"I am convinced," Casement wrote, "that the intention was to send this brigade on the Western Front. When I realised that, I decided to have nothing more to do with the enterprise."

"It was then that the Germans decided to repatriate me to Ireland. I am convinced that it was they who advised the British authorities of my landing plans in order to ensure that I should fall into British hands. It was their idea of punishing me for my failure to fall in with their plans."

It was left to his family to determine whether any or all of his papers should be published. They have decided against publication.

THE HARDEST
£10 BOUNTY

In the balance-sheet of the Royal Chelsea Hospital there appears a brief entry, which reads:—

"From the Bradley V.C. Fund—£10."

Behind this cryptic announcement there lies the story of a hero who voluntarily surrenders the £10 bounty which the State pays to him annually for his deed of valour.

Twenty-four-years-old F. A. Bradley, serving in the South African war as a driver in the Royal Field Artillery, was one of a little garrison surrounded at Itala, in Zululand, by 1,600 Boers.

Man after man was shot down in attempting to cross the fatal 150 yards, swept by gunfire. Driver Bradley succeeded, carried ammunition up the hill, saved the day.

At the end of the war Lord Kitchener pinned the V.C. on his chest.

To-day Driver Bradley is a veteran of nearly sixty, but each year when he receives his bounty, the hardest-earned money in the Army—he sends it to the hospital.

FRANCE TO AID BRITAIN

military observers state that her garrisons on the Italian border have been brought to full strength with the arrival of four new Alpine regiments.

M. Pietri, Minister of Marine, has cancelled his trip to Brest for the launching of a new warship, and will attend an emergency Cabinet meeting, probably on Wednesday.

It is believed that M. Pierre Laval, the Prime Minister, will strongly advise Britain against proposing any drastic actions, fearing that a blockade of Italy will mean war.

BATTLESHIPS LEAVE

Four battleships, the Courbet, Jeanbart, Condoriet and Paris, which were sent to the Channel ports in the Spring following German re-armament, are now at Toulon with the entire First Fleet, including eight heavy cruisers, 38 destroyers, and 35 submarines. Experts are studying measures to defend Djibouti, in French Somaliland, which is considered vulnerable to naval attack.—Special.

EDEN'S MOVEMENTS

Geneva, Sept. 30.
Mr. Anthony Eden, the British spokesman at Geneva, is staying in Paris to-night and flying to London to-morrow. He will return to Geneva for Thursday's meeting of the Committee of Thirteen which will consider its actions in the event of an Italo-Ethiopian war.—Reuter.

SEES THE KING

London, Sept. 30.
Mr. Stanley Baldwin, the Prime Minister, visited His Majesty the King at Buckingham Palace to-day. It is understood that it was merely a formal visit on the occasion of His Majesty's return after an absence from London.

Signor Grandi, the Italian Ambassador, paid a thirty minutes' visit to the Foreign Office during the afternoon.—Reuter.

BANDIT GANG FOILED

BUT BANK EMPLOYEE LIKELY TO DIE

Chicago, Sept. 30.
When bandits, believed to have been led by the notorious Alvin Karpis, entered the University State Bank, an employee, Mr. William Fleming, started shooting. He also released tear gas. The gangsters opened fire in return and dropped Fleming, two women and another man. Fleming may die, but the gang died without loot.—United Press.

RABIES DANGER

PUPPY PLACED UNDER OBSERVATION

Suspected of being suffering from rabies, a puppy belonging to Mrs. Butler, residing at No. 79 Kimberley Road, Kowloon, has been removed to Ma Tau Kok for observation. Leung Ng, married woman, has reported to the police that while walking in Yeung Po Fong yesterday, she was bitten on the leg by a spaniel dog, owned by Mak King-yan. She received treatment at the Kowloon Hospital, and the dog was removed to Ma Tau Kok for observation.

Admitting a summons for allowing her dog abroad in Carnarvon Road near Nathan Road at 8.40 a.m. on September 12, without a muzzle, Mrs. B. Thomson, of No. 121 Carnarvon Road, was fined $10 by Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning. Defendant stated that it was a small puppy, not quite three months old.

There was a very large turn out of diplomatic and administrative official in Shanghai, when a solemn Requiem Mass was held in St. Joseph's Church, Rue Montauban, for the repose of the soul of the late Queen Astrid of Belgium. Practically every country and local department was represented, and the above pictures show some of those who attended the service.

PRINCESS AS BRIDESMAID

PLANS FOR ROYAL NUPTIALS

Seven of the eight bridesmaids who will attend Lady Alice Scott at her wedding with the Duke of Gloucester on November 6 will be under seventeen years of age. The bridesmaids will be Princess Elizabeth, Princess Margaret Rose, Lady Mary Cambridge, the bride's sister, Lady Angel Scott, her cousin, Miss Marya Scott, her nieces, Lady Elizabeth Scott and Miss Clare Phipps, aged 14, and Amy Hawkes, aged five. This will be the first time little Princess Margaret Rose has acted as bridesmaid.—Reuter.

DECREASED IMPORTS

STATISTICS FROM JAPAN

Tokyo, Oct. 1.
Official statistics for the last ten days of September show a decrease in imports, principally cotton. The decrease is attributed to uncertainties regarding the American cotton loan programme. However, cotton imports from all other countries have also declined. September reports show that exports of miscellaneous goods increased satisfactorily.—United Press.

BRITAIN'S REPLY

The British reply to the French enquiry whether the policy at present being followed in the Italo-Ethiopian dispute implies a willingness to resort to sanctions against aggressors in Europe, accords with forecasts of its general tenor. In plain words, it is stated that Britain's policy is one of unwavering fidelity to the League principles and that there is no question of its being peculiar to the present crisis. In his speech at the League Assembly some two or three weeks ago, Sir Samuel Hoare was at great pains to explain the basic principles of Britain's stand for justice; there was no ambiguity whatever in his utterance. He pledged British support of the League Covenant, and all that it implies, and went on to stress the point that the burden of the Covenant obligations have to be borne collectively, adding that the security of the many could not be ensured by the efforts of a few, however powerful. The Note now delivered to France recapitulates British firm adherence to the Covenant, but rightly points out that appropriate action in different cases may vary. In other words, Britain reserves the right to act on the merits of cases as they arise; she cannot give a definite pledge to a certain course of action in purely hypothetical cases. Actually, there was never any occasion for France to raise the query. That was a mistake in tactics, likely to confuse the position. All that France, or any other nation needs to concern itself with at the moment is the question of the correct course to take in the present crisis. A concrete case has arisen, involving a threat to Covenant obligations, and it therefore becomes imperative to see that the collective system enshrined in that Covenant shall not break down. In future crises, the facts may not be on all fours with that which obtains at the moment; it will be time enough to deal with such situations when they actually arise. In the meantime, France has Britain's definite assurance that she stands by the principle of collective resistance to all acts of unprovoked aggression. It therefore follows that if such acts are committed whether in Europe or elsewhere, Britain will take her stand in full alignment with those who are determined to uphold the system of collective guarantees, and in the

NOTES OF THE DAY

PICKING A QUARREL

The British press interprets the recent communique from Rome suggesting bi-lateral conversations with England, as a clever move on the part of Rome to add to the impression that the Ethiopian crisis is caused more by a direct clash of Anglo-Italian interests than by the fact that Italy contemplates a breach of the League Covenant. The Italians go so far as to suggest that the League is in reality neutral in this dispute and that any opposition to the Italian programme in East Africa has been animated entirely by Britain. For some time it has seemed that Italy has been seeking a quarrel with Great Britain. Possibly she believes that she can shake Britain's influence at Geneva, which admittedly is great, and that the League will refuse to support sanctions under the Covenant in the event of a war of aggression in Africa. In that event Britain would either have to abandon the League and wash her hands of the whole European situation, or else fight for the Covenant's principles alone. She has said she will not fight alone. Italy, then, is in reality attempting to cause a diversion, to prevent unanimity in the League Council and thus upset the calculations of those who believe that, by means of a show of strength and a solid front at Geneva, the Roman belligerence may be discouraged. Italy says there is no unanimity at Geneva. We believe she is mistaken and that if she acts on that assumption, believing the corollary that no sanctions will be undertaken against her, she will be unpleasantly surprised.

FARCICAL ELECTION

The Memel election assuredly is one of the most farcical things of the sort we have observed for some time. The Germans are pleased, of course, that they should have turned out in this way, resulting in shootings and riots and the creation of a situation of very threatening proportions, because the Germans are pleased at anything that puts Lithuanians and the Lithuanian administration in an unpleasant light. The cause of the disorders was not far to seek. When the people commenced trickling into the polling booths in the early morning to cast their secret ballots they were confronted with a list of candidates of various parties of staggering dimensions. There were 29 to be elected out of 187 candidates and a voter could pick any combination of 29 names. (Here, incidentally is a piece of mathematics which the Lithuanian authorities may not have taken into consideration: how many different combinations of 29 are possible out of 187 candidates?). In any event, some of the simple country folk spent an hour in the voting booths, perspiring over the list of aspirants and looking for the names of the men they preferred. What a burden for the man who takes his politics seriously! We know of a gentleman who spent three-quarters of an hour marking a ballot on which there were only three names... and he was an Englishman. But that is another story. Meanwhile there were crowds gathering outside the polling stations, demanding entry, suspecting foul play and high treason. Shots were fired. Agitated and excited men were seen. An emergency Cabinet meeting decreed that the polling booths should stay open as long as there were voters waiting to exercise their franchise. And so it goes on. When the voting is finished and the scrutineers start their counting they will have had a record session in the booths and they may be pardoned if they weary. It would be quicker, and probably would not cause any more trouble, if the Memel authorities decided the political issue by the simpler centime-millime-millime system.

taking of such measures as the circumstances may warrant. France could not reasonably expect any further undertaking, and it is reassuring to know that the British reply is regarded in Paris as quite satisfactory. Best of all, the unanimity of the British and French views in the present crisis is shown to be in no danger of being broken down.

LORD LINLITHGOW, LEADER BY TRADITION

(BY EVERARD COTES)

(Distinguished Contributor of the Christian Science Monitor).

LORD Linlithgow's appointment as next Indian Viceroy means that one of the chief draftsmen of the British Government's newly enacted scheme for self-government for the United Kingdom's Oriental dependency is now made responsible for putting this great project of liberation into effect. Lord Linlithgow already has first-hand knowledge of the people of India. He knows the essential part which peasantry, constituting as it does the vast majority of the Indian population, must play in any future Government at Delhi. "Make no mistake," he said in a recent debate on this question in the British House of Lords, "that the rural masses in India, for so many centuries unchanging, are at last on the move." He means to shape his policy to meet this in work he has to undertake in India, where, besides representing Britain, he will exercise extensive personal powers to prevent misrule until democratic institutions become firmly established. The pagentry of four crowded centuries of British history is reflected in Victor Alexander John Hope, second Marquis of Linlithgow, a tall, pleasant-spoken Scotsman, who has served as President of the Joint Committee of both Houses of Parliament on the Indian Reforms. Lord Linlithgow's home is at Hopetoun House, a beautiful eighteenth-century dwelling with lovely gardens sloping down to the Firth of Forth, a dozen miles from Edinburgh. Here one of his neighbours described him to the writer as "among the finest of the younger Scottish peers." Another neighbour said he was "absolutely unselfish in his desire to promote the public good."

Linlithgow, a small town in the neighbourhood of Hopetoun House, was the residence of the sovereigns of Scotland in mediaeval days. It was there that Mary Queen of Scots was born. The old palace, built between the fourteenth and seventeenth centuries, forms a square mass with low towers at the angles. Lord Linlithgow has done valuable public work in a number of directions. Born 47 years ago, he was educated at Eton, served throughout the Great War and has since taken a prominent share in British politics. In the capacity of deputy chairman of the Unionist organisation he was at one time responsible for the whole Conservative Party machine. He was chairman of the Committee on Distribution and Prices of Agricultural Produce (1923), which committee laid the foundation of the agricultural marketing organisations now being built up in Britain. As chairman of a Royal Commission on Indian Agriculture in 1926-28, he gained extensive knowledge on the spot of the conditions under which the masses in India pass their lives. This has stood him in good stead in the still wider study of India he has since made in connection with the reforms. The voluminous report issued by the Agricultural Commission has been the foundation of all subsequent government action on this immensely intricate question during the past six years. Not the least of its importance has been in its tracing the problem right back to its roots in the psychology of the Indian cultivator. "We have endeavoured," Lord Linlithgow said in it, "to make plain our conviction that no substantial improvement in agriculture can be effected unless the cultivator has the will to achieve a better standard of living, and the capacity, in terms of mental equipment and of physical health, to take advantage of the opportunities which knowledge, wise laws and good administration may place at his disposal." Behind this pronouncement lies the basic truth that the measure of advance, whether agricultural or political, that is possible in India is conditioned by the state of the civilisation reached by those to whom reform is to be applied. The statement is illuminating as indicating Lord Linlithgow's attitude on the vast problem of the Indian Constitutional Reforms, which are looked upon as a model for co-operation among the nations generally on a world-wide scale.

Defending these reforms at a number of public meetings, his frankness and sincerity have done much to reassure British opinion, which was at one time widely distrustful of the scheme. One of his chief speeches was at a gathering in London, in December, of 1,500 Conservative delegates from all parts of the United Kingdom. On that occasion his balanced and temperate account of the situation proved an important contribution to the Government's case in favour of the reforms. Speaking as chairman of the Joint Committee, he said that the safeguards that had been introduced strengthened the position against the possibility of the failure of the Indian ministers adequately to discharge their duties. While refusing to claim that the course he advised would be free from anxieties, he argued successfully that it "followed the way in which the strength of Britain has always lain—namely that of the middle road." The judicial atmosphere he has thus injected into a situation in which feelings on both sides had become heated has helped perhaps more than anything else to reconcile British public opinion to the far-reaching recommendations of his committee, which have been no less than to give autonomy to 350,000,000 people. The general view has been that no plan for which Lord Linlithgow vouched could be otherwise than reasonable and well considered. The prominence of Lord Linlithgow's part in the scheme has been worthy of the traditions of the family to which he belongs. His father, the first Marquis of Linlithgow, was the Governor General of Australia when the Federated Commonwealth of that country was inaugurated. He thus created a precedent for his son, who, in presiding over the Indian Reforms Committee, has had to shape a still bigger federation within the British Empire.

The present Lord Linlithgow resembles his father in self-effacement. Correspondents who asked to interview him when the report of his committee appeared were told he was not seeing the press. It is on record that his father was no less personally diffident. The late Lord Roseberry, when Prime Minister of England, said of the first Marquis of Linlithgow: "He regarded himself as unequal to high office but proved himself more than adequate." Adequacy, indeed, is a Linlithgow quality many generations old. The faraway founder of the British branch of the clan was John de Hope, a merchant of Amsterdam, who first appeared in Edinburgh in 1537 in the household of Madeleine of Valois, Queen of King James V and mother of Mary Queen of Scots. This Dutch ancestry was so widely known that it was referred to in the British Parliament so long ago as 1867 by Benjamin Disraeli, then Prime Minister. The occasion was a debate in which Mr. Disraeli's chief opponent was one Alexander Hope, a last-century relative of the Lord Linlithgow of to-day. Mr. Hope had slightly recalled Mr. Disraeli's Semitic origin, describing him as the "Asian Mystery." Mr. Disraeli replied scoldingly in kind, by alluding to the "Batavian traces" of his assailant. The shaft was double-barbed. It aimed at both the ancestry and the popularity of the family. The Mr. Hope who was concerned in this witty duel with the most formidable debater of his day was one of many members of the Linlithgow family who at different periods have risen to prominence in the state.

Sir Thomas Hope, Lord Advocate of Scotland, great-grandson of John Hope of Amsterdam, was one of Lord Linlithgow's direct ancestors. Sir Thomas took Cromwell's side in the civil wars of the Cavaliers and Roundheads. He told King Charles I. outright that the Covenanters were "the most loyal and faithful subjects that ever a prince had." He was so influential that that he was able to do this with impunity. A contemporary chronicler says though the King's Commissioner, the Marquis of Hamilton, found him "one of his greatest troubles" he "dared not dismiss him." Sir Thomas was followed in the seventeenth century by Sir James Hope, who was described as "a good and upright judge" and "a man full of virtue, who kept many poor and indigent people in labour." Lord Linlithgow's great-grandfather, the fourth Earl of Hopetoun, was the close friend and one of the chief lieutenants of the Duke of Wellington throughout the long Peninsular campaigns against Napoleon. The

The Very Idea!

Purity Is Now Becoming All The Rage In H.K.

PURITY is rapidly becoming fashionable, thanks to the League of Decency in America.

People who previously objected to it are now viewing it tolerantly.

In America they aim to ban anything that tends to make vice more attractive and virtue a back number.

Films must have no bedroom scenes, no bathroom scenes, no scanty clothing scenes, no demonstrations of passionate love, and no scenes of violence.

We look forward to the time when there will be no bathrooms, or if there are, when they are hermetically sealed and are referred to, when it is impossible to refrain from mentioning them, as the "B."

Soap, in these happy times, on account of its close association with the naked flesh, will be referred to as "S", and will be sold in packets labelled "Dog Biscuits." When retiring to the "B.R." (bedroom), the pure-minded man will not clothe himself scantily, but rather don an overcoat, and, having locked the door, stand up in the wardrobe and go to sleep.

Demonstrations of passionate love will be confined to hand-shaking, and then only under proper supervision.

Violence and bloodshed will not be permitted except in surgeries and dental parlours.

As for women—women will not be permitted at all. Or perhaps they might be kept in compounds, wearing long cement-bag covering and stove-pipe leggings.

Anything calculated to arouse the baser passions, such as a knife or fork, will be used only by people of repute. Square plates, of course. We can never look at a round plate without blushing at its curves.

For this same reason the New Territory, Peak and Repulse Bay roads will be dynamited and relaid. Can't have all those curves.

If any reader can think of any other improvements, we will be glad to put them into effect, or ban them, or burn and prohibit and disinfect them.

We get a sensual pleasure out of banning things, and pure minds are full of things to ban.

We are determined to make Hongkong a purer and a better place.

It's the only way we can be sure of preventing all these infernal tourists from cluttering up the place.

Duke referred to him in a dispatch as "the ablest man in the Peninsular army." A more distant relative was Admiral Sir William Johnstone Hope, who served under Nelson. Another was Admiral Sir Henry Hope, who captured the United States frigate, President, off Sandy Hook in 1813. The present Lord Linlithgow was brought up in the atmosphere of these great traditions.

(Special to "Telegraph")

New York, Sept. 30. With 450 passengers and 526 crew aboard, the 24,149-ton Holland-America liner Rotterdam, went hard aground on a reef at Morant Cays Island, in the Caribbean Sea, whilst returning from a West Indies cruise.

The first attempt to float the liner was unsuccessful, and the British steamer Arguani is now taking off the passengers and conveying them to Kingston, Jamaica, sixty miles away.—Reuter Special.

A United Press message states that the passengers and crew are being removed as a precaution, the actual danger to the liner being slight.

PASSENGERS SAFE

Kingston, Sept. 30. The passengers and crew of the liner Rotterdam have been transferred to the Arguani.

The seas remain calm and the transfer was effected smoothly, following unsuccessful efforts to float the liner.—United Press.

ATTEMPT TO GET REWARD

FALSE INFORMATION TO POLICE

Tsang Sang, aged 29, unemployed, was sentenced to a total of twelve months' hard labour when he pleaded guilty before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning to possession of two revolvers and eight rounds of ammunition at an unnumbered hut, and with giving false information to the police in the hope of obtaining a reward.

A charge of possession of arms was withdrawn by the prosecution against Cheung Loi, aged 22, cake seller, and he was discharged.

Detective-Inspector A. J. W. Dorking, in outlining the case, stated that on the night of September 29 a warrant was executed on an unnumbered hut on a vacant piece of ground opposite the Kowloon Hospital. Two revolvers, both loaded, were found wrapped in some clothing in a suitcase which was locked. At that time a man named Cheung Loi was arrested and was charged with having possession of the arms.

During further investigations, it was discovered that Tsang Sang had brought the guns from the country and purposely put them in the other man's hut, then giving information with the hope of getting a reward. The police arrested Tsang yesterday and charged him with possession of the arms, and in answer to the charge he stated, "These guns are mine." In view of this, the prosecution preferred a further charge of giving false information against the defendant.

In answer to the Magistrate, Inspector Dorking stated that the reward would have been about $100.

Defendant pleaded guilty to both charges and was sentenced to 12 months' hard labour on the first and three months on the second, concurrent.

The charge against Cheung Loi was withdrawn on the application of the prosecution and he was discharged.

JAPAN'S NAVAL ARMS STAND

NO ALTERATION IN ATTITUDE

Tokyo, Oct. 1. It is probable that seven to fourteen days will elapse before Japan will reply formally to Britain regarding the convocation of a naval conference, since the Cabinet must approve the note. Japanese naval observers predict that Japan will express her readiness to participate, with the reservation that there will be no change in her fundamental policy as presented on August 26. Equality, with a common upper limit, is Japan's demand. Armaments must be based on a basis of sufficiency for defence and insufficiency for attack.—Reuter.

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Media, Ltd., 1935. Reprinted, October 1, 1935.)

London, Sept. 30. The Labour Party Conference, which opened at Brighton to-day, unanimously carried a resolution calling for legislation which would make the maintenance of the unemployed a completely national charge and provide adequate scales of benefit without the imposition of humiliating conditions.

The Conference draft resolution criticising a recent speech by the Prince of Wales, describing those deprecating military influence in the Officers Training Corps in education as "cranks in authority," was considered, but the motion was referred back.

A section of the Executive report declaring that membership in the Independent Labour Party and the Independent Socialist Party was incompatible with membership in the Labour Party was overwhelmingly defeated.—Reuter Special.

BOGUS TELEPHONE MESSAGE

PRISON FOR FALSE PRETENCES

Four months' hard labour was passed on Wong Fuk-cheung, 20, unemployed, when he appeared before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning on a charge of attempting to obtain money by false pretences.

Detective Sergeant Ellis stated that at 9 a.m. yesterday some person telephoned to the Chau Ngai Hing building factory and asked for a loan of $20. He was asked to call at the factory and at 11 a.m. defendant arrived and produced a letter purporting to have been written by a man named Li Tat-ling. The wife of the man Li Tat-ling, who was called to the factory and she disclosed the fact that her husband had been in Canton since the 26th.

When defendant was arrested he told the police that he was the one who telephoned to the factory and admitted that he was the writer of the letter. Defendant had been employed by Li, who was a building contractor, last year. There was one previous conviction against defendant.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

CUSTOM IS THE PLAGUE OF WISE MEN, AND THE IDOL OF FOOLS.—Novelists.

The H.Q. Royal Artillery W.O.'s and Sergeants' Mess will be holding their fortnightly whist drive and tombola at the above mess on Friday, commencing at 8.30 p.m.

For returning from banishment before the completion of his term, Chan Sui, 30, unemployed, was sentenced to nine months' hard labour by Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court this morning. Defendant was banished for ten years from March 22 last. Sub-Inspector J. J. Walsh presided.

Mr. J. R. Oliver, driver of private car No. 508, has reported to the police that while driving along Electric Road near Wing King Road yesterday, a boy, Chua King-keo, aged seven years, suddenly ran across the road in front of the car and was knocked down. He received slight injuries, but was not detained on admission to the Government Civil Hospital.

Cheung Kiu, 26, unemployed, was brought before Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Magistracy this morning, charged with stealing a pair of trousers, the property of Li Sing-yau, assistant at stall No. 11, Lower Macao. Detective Sergeant T. Cushman stated that when arrested the defendant was wearing the jacket and trousers. Defendant pleaded guilty to the charge and was sent to prison for three weeks.

R. R. W. Ashby, of Messrs. Dodwell and Company, was this morning fined $5 by Mr. W. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy, for driving a car which was not duly licensed. Traffic Sub-Inspector Brittain said the car had no number plate in front, and at the back was stuck a piece of paper with the number T327. Defendant admitted the summons, saying he was demonstrating the car, but it had apparently been taken off by a Chinese broker of the firm. The rear plate had been lost, and the Traffic Department had been notified of it.

YOUNG MAN IN CUSTODY

(Special to "Telegraph")

Colorado Springs, Sept. 30. Kenneth Garrett, 22, has been ordered held incommunicado and without bond, pending the findings of a coroner's inquest following the strange death of Margaret Will, 21, Garrett's fiancée.

She was a lovely Colorado College student and her body, bruised and battered, was found recently floating in Fountain Creek, just south of this city's limits.

The District Attorney, Mr. Clyde Starrett, says that Garrett's story does not synchronise with that of other witnesses.

GEN. BORRETT'S DEPARTURE

COLOURFUL SEND-OFF ARRANGED

LT.-Gen. O. C. Borrett, G.B., C.M.G., C.B.E., D.S.O., who is vacating the post of General Officer Commanding the British Troops in China, is leaving the Colony on Saturday, October 5, by the P. and O. liner Rajputana.

General Borrett will arrive at Queen's Pier at 10.15 a.m. where he will take the salute from guards of honour provided by the Royal Navy and the 1st Battalion the Lincolnshire Regiment. The General will then say good-bye to Service and civilian friends, after which, at 10.30 a.m., he will board the launch Victoria and proceed to the Rajputana.

On Saturday, Maj.-Gen. F. S. Thackeray, D.S.O., M.C., Commanding the Shanghai Area, assumes command of the British Troops in China pending the arrival, about December 8, of Maj.-Gen. A. W. Bartholomew, C.B., C.M.G., C.B.E., D.S.O., to fill the post.

DILLINGER'S BETRAYER

Chicago, Sept. 30. Anna Sage, who betrayed John Dillinger to the police, obtained a week's stay of deportation proceedings to-day when she claimed that the Government had twice "double-crossed" her, first when she was promised Dillinger would not be killed and secondly when she was promised that deportation would not be her lot.—United Press.

One case of Typhoid was reported to the local health authorities during the week-end.

The Servicemen's dance at the Y.M.C.A. will be held on Monday, October 7, and not to-morrow.

The following forthcoming weddings are announced: Mr. James Robert Canning, pianoforte maker, Marjorie Hall, Kowloon, and Miss Zennadi Gintov, civil engineer, 200 F. Prince Edward Road, Mr. Federico Antonia Xavier, merchant, 16 Macdonnell Road, and Miss Angelina Maria dos Remedios, 9 Austin Road, Kowloon.

On a charge of being found in an unoccupied room on the third floor of a building for an unlawful purpose, Li Fat, aged 41, unemployed, was bound over when he appeared before Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Magistracy this morning. Detective Sergeant J. Shepherd stated that defendant bought and sold packing cases. He was not employed by anybody.

Admitting a breach of the Deportation Ordinance, Mak Fu, aged 32, was sentenced to 12 months' hard labour by Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning. Defendant, who was banished for ten years on April 25, admitted having committed a similar offence this year. Another banished, Wong Lin-kau, aged 24, was sentenced to six months' hard labour. He admitted that he was banished for ten years on December 12, 1933, and pleaded that he could find no work.

Kwok Piu, 31, street coolie, who admitted striking Ho Sam, 41, also a street coolie, on the head with a bamboo pole, was bound over by Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court this morning and ordered to pay $3 amends, or five days' hard labour in default. Sub-Inspector J. J. Walsh stated that yesterday a boy was playing with the defendant's bamboo pole and it fell into the harbour. Defendant requested him to get it back but the lad refused, whereupon the defendant began to beat him. Complainant remonstrated and was struck on the head with a pole by the defendant. The wound necessitated a few stitches.

SECOND DAY OF ELECTIONS

PRO-GERMAN POPULACE

Memel, Sept. 30. The second day of the elections passed off quietly, but at Schneid many electors complained of not being able to vote.

Journalists touring the polling stations received an uproarious welcome from the population, which held impromptu pro-German demonstrations under the eyes of the silent Lithuanian police.

The open manner in which the demonstrations were held indicates that the populace is not in any state of political suppression by the Lithuanians, but it also affords impressive evidence of the strength of pro-German feeling in the Memel territory.

Meanwhile, speculation has been aroused by the unexpected arrival of Herr Hitler at Königsberg, accompanied by General von Blomberg and General von Fritsch, but a rumour that Hitler intends to deliver an important speech at Tilset, on the German side of the Memel River, to-morrow, lacks official confirmation.—Reuter.

PULLERS' STRIKE DECLARED

(Our Own Correspondent.)

Macao, Oct. 1. Public ricksha coolies have gone on strike to-day as a protest against an attempt by the municipal authorities to enforce a system of registration.

The new regulations also included provisions requiring the coolies to be neatly attired. So far, there have been no untoward developments, the coolies merely refusing to work.

It is believed that the coolies have been influenced to strike by other coolies not domiciled in Macao, to whom registration has been refused.

JAPANESE SEEKING CONTROL

Tokyo, Oct. 1. Following a conference with Government officials, representatives of General Motors are understood to be conducting a series of conferences with officials of the Nissan Automobile Company, which virtually represents Japan's automobile interests, since it manufactures the Datsun, the only motor-car produced in the country to any marked extent.

The conversations are understood to have centred on the question whether General Motors shall sell their equipment rights entirely to the Nissan Company.—United Press.

IN WORLD SERIES BASEBALL

STATISTICS FOR THE SEASON

(Special to "Telegraph")

New York, Sept. 30. The Detroit Tigers have won the American Baseball Championship and will meet the Chicago Cubs in the World Series, which start on Wednesday.

Gordon Cochrane has announced that "Schoolboy" Rowe will pitch in the first game, while the Cubs are expected to start with Lonnie Warneke for the opener.

The Tigers are 7-5 favourites to win the series and odds of 5-4 are offered on them to take the first of the five games.

However, there is a flood of Cubs' money on the market and it is forecast that the odds will possibly be even before the series actually start. Altogether 500,000 applications have been received for the opening match and of these 50,000 have already been issued.—United Press.

BRUSSELS FIGHT FARCE

Claimed To Be for World Heavy-Weight Title

The farcical world heavy-weight championship fight between George Godfrey, the coloured American boxer, and Pierre Charles, of Belgium, is to be fought on October 2 at the Palais des Sports, Brussels, for a purse of £1,725.

The winner will be world champion, according to the International Boxing Union, which refuses to acknowledge any of the edicts of the New York State Athletic Commission and National Boxing Association of America.

Max Baer, when champion, refused to travel to Europe to meet Pierre Charles, former heavy-weight champion of Europe, so the I.B.U. declared the title vacant, and have sanctioned Charles and Godfrey to fight for it.

CHAMPION BOXER

BENNY LYNCH & JACKIE BROWN

(By Geoffrey Simpson)

London, Sept. 4. In the latest American ranking lists Benny Lynch, stocky Glasgow fighter, has been elevated to No. 1 position among the world's fly-weights, with Jackie Brown, official world champion, second.

How the compilers 3,000 miles distant, arrive at this estimate, seeing that Brown has held on to his championship for three years against all comers, may bewilder Lancashire, but not Scotland.

Perhaps it is a case of intelligent anticipation; for on Monday night in the Belle Vue ring, Manchester, not far from Brown's birthplace, the champion must risk his title against Lynch's busy fists.

SPECIAL TRAINS

Brown's British and European championships will be in the melting pot too, which explains why special trains are taking hundreds of Scotsmen to the battle, and why the remarkably high purse (for fly-weights) of £3,800 is being paid.

Lynch, in my view, represents the most formidable challenger Brown has had to face since he flattened Young Perez, from Tunis.

I am still convinced that Lynch beat Brown fairly and squarely that night in Glasgow when they met in a non-title match. But the referee, in spite of the fact that Brown had paid numerous visits to the canvas, made it a draw.

That still leaves us free to state that Brown was a decidedly lucky man to dodge defeat. His reputation for giving "back" performances in overweight contests is well known. But it is also well known that Brown takes considerable pride in his position as a messenger boy, and his spinning for a long count in round one I am sure he must have paid strict attention to business thereafter.

HEFTY BLOWS

Even so, Brown, turning on full speed, could not get on top, and Lynch, showing an impudent disregard for reputations, sent the champion down several more times from hefty thumps to the jaw.

This Scot of 21, who used to earn a few shillings a week as a messenger boy, is the best 8st. fighter we have had since Brown "arrived" some seven years back. He has a fast, shifty style, which gives him a gliding motion in attack. He can change his feet without losing power and reaches punching position by artful swaying and head rolling.

This makes him hard to time for a weighty blow. He is the type straight-left-hand boxer does not like. They get unsettled through missing too often and leaving themselves open to body punishment.

Brown missed an awful lot against Lynch. Five times amateur champion, whom Lynch stopped in workmanlike style.

He is a hard puncher, this Glasgow boy, and wonderfully quick with his counter blows. If he can wreck Brown's long-range boxing, as he did in Glasgow, I think he will have only doubt to have about him in his strength at the weight. Though only 5ft. 6ins., Lynch is solidly made, but he laughingly told me once that 8st. was easy for him.

All of which does not alter the fact that Brown can box brilliantly. When he is moving round in swift circles and "seeing" his target well he can make his left hand answer all questions. To do this, he must escape these speed-destroying body onslaughts of Lynch.

Altogether, it is a most fascinating fight—and Brown has trained for it as never before. He is installed in a fine old country mansion with an imposing team of professional helpers, boats to row and horses to ride.

Lynch, who is taking only £900 of the £3,800 purse, is training in a small gymnasium in a humble part of Glasgow, with the aid of enthusiastic amateur sparring partners.

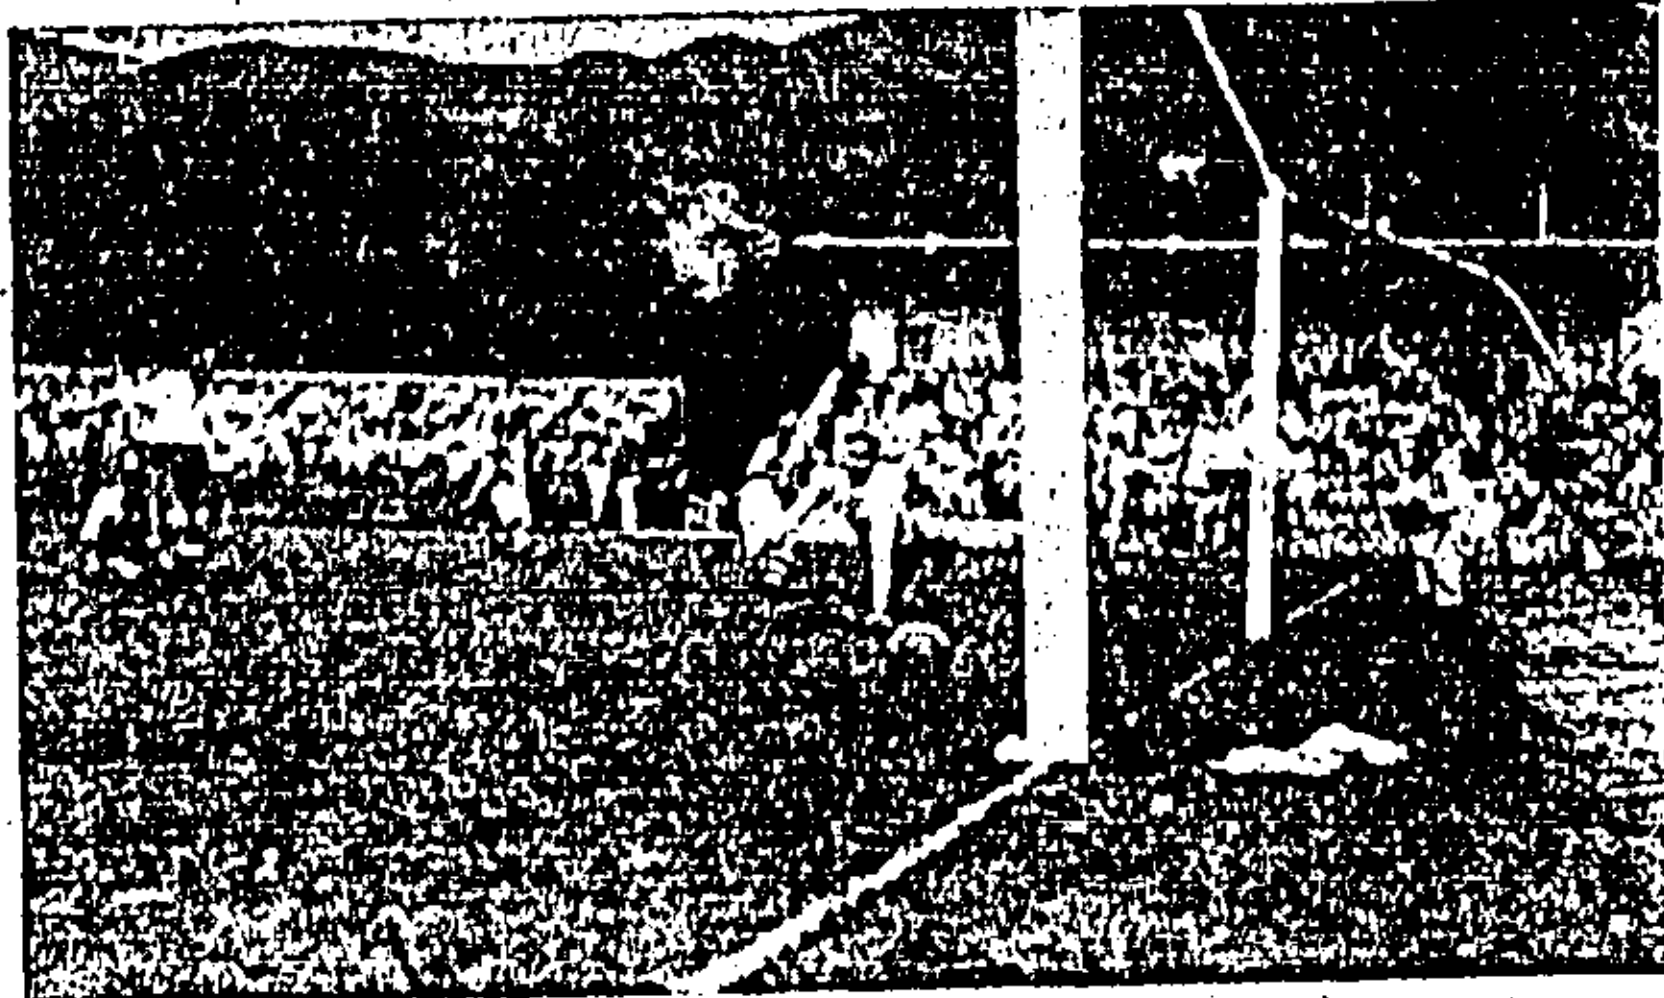

Lynch beat Brown on a technical knock-out in the second round in the bout on September 9.

A. H. PADGHAM BEATS PERRY

IN EXHIBITION MATCH

London, Sept. 2.

A. H. Padgham (Sunderland Park) beat Alfred Perry (Leatherhead), the British Open champion, by 7 and 6 in a 36 holes professional exhibition match yesterday on the Selsdon Park Club's course near Croydon.

Padgham held a lead of four holes at the end of the first round. For the first 18 holes he had a score of 71 against 76 by his fellow Ryder Cup international, and for the full round in the afternoon he totalled 71 against 73.

In the Open championship this year Perry and Padgham were respectively first and second, separated by four strokes.

Padgham won the opening hole, where Perry was short with two shots, but after a series of halves he was twice bunkered at the 5th, where the Open champion drew level. Padgham, however, took the 6th in four, and turned with an advantage of one hole. Padgham then won the first two holes on the homeward journey.

Perry obtained a win in three at the 12th, but Padgham resumed his three holes advantage by taking the 13th, where he holed from six yards for an "eagle" three. He became four up at the 15th. Although Perry won the 16th, the Open champion was four down at the end of the round.

Padgham produced some brilliant golf in the second round. He got down a putt of nine feet at the 7th and again at the 8th. Perry was somewhat unlucky at the 9th, for his tee-shot went out of bounds. A win in four at the 10th made Padgham 7 up, and the match ended in his favour two holes later.

Mansfield Town F.C. transferred their left full-back, A. Ashley, to Sheffield Wednesday at a four-figure fee.

"Rounders Is Not A Bad Game" Says Gem

GIRL TENNIS PLAYER GOOD COPY FOR THE NEWS HOUND

Miss Gem Hoahing, aged 14, Chinese junior champion of Middlesex, is already a tennis star, says a London Evening Standard special correspondent.

In winning the title at Harrow the other day, against stiff opposition, she took 61 games in a row—a world's record for championship tennis.

She is being talked of, photographed, interviewed.

"Not since Lengien..." begin the critics.

At home in Twickenham, Miss Gem is merely a schoolgirl, rather shy and unassuming, much like her fellow-pupils at the Twickenham County High School.

Ordinary—yet not quite ordinary.

"ALL THIS FUSS"

Mrs. Hoahing received me guardedly. She has begun to have views on fame. "All this fuss—it has such possibilities for harm," she said.

We found Gem in the garden, or rather she found us. Mr. and Mrs. Hoahing stood on the lawn and called. "I can never find her," said Mrs. Hoahing.

Gem, emerging from a shrubbery, received the visitor shyly. We shook hands. I saw a sturdy, graceful child, with a jet black fringe cut in the Chinese way, and amusing eyes. "Do you play ping-pong?" asked Mrs. Hoahing. "Would you like to take her on?"

3/4 strolled through the kitchen garden to the greenhouse, where the table was. The garden was lovely, and the hot-house tomatoes monstrous.

LONDON PLANS MEMORIAL

CHARLES COTTON

Charles Cotton, contemporary brother-anter to the great Isaac Walton, is to be given a memorial in the heart of London.

There are three memorials in different parts of the country to Walton, but none of any kind has been erected to the name of Cotton, a famous fly-fisherman and scholar who died in 1697 and was buried within the precincts of St. James's Church, Piccadilly.

A suggestion has been made that an enamelled plaque or stained-glass window should be placed in this church.

Cotton spent his younger days in writing poetry, but he was often a fugitive from his creditors and sought refuge on numerous occasions in a cave in Dovedale.

PUBLISHED HIS POEMS

After the Restoration he began to publish his poems and Walton visited him at Hoxford Hall in the Park District, where Cotton had built a fishing house.

On a stone in front of this house are the combined initials of Walton and Cotton.

Walton was master of the art of fishing in the slow rivers in the south of England, but he recognised that Cotton had the greater knowledge of fly-fishing in the swift streams of the north country and he asked him to write a treatise.

When Walton was preparing his fifth edition of his "Compleat Angler" he asked Cotton to write a second part containing "Instructions how to Angle for a Trout or Grayling in a Clear Stream," and this second part, published in 1676, has since formed one book with the first.

"Like Walton's first book, it is written in dialogue and describes, in elegant phrases, the fishing amid a beautiful scenery."

Among those who have subscribed to the proposed memorial are Lord Hinchinbrook, a keen angler and chairman of the Thames Conservancy Board, Lord Glanusk, Sir Arthur Gwynne-James and Sir Rudolph Smith.

SECURES VICTORY ON LAST GREEN

Mediocre Display By The Two Finalists

(By ELEANOR E. HELME)

Miss Peggy Falkner, of Worplesdon, is the new girls' golf champion, for yesterday she beat Miss Sonia Swinburn Johnson, of Stoke Poges, by 5 and 4 in the semi-final and Miss Joan Pemberton, of Bramhall Park, 1 up in the final.

Miss Pemberton won her semi-final 1 and 2 from Miss Sheila Stroyan, of Worplesdon.

Miss Falkner had an advantage of three years from all three semi-finalists, and that, at 18 years, means a great deal. Also she is a four-handicap, as that on paper the championship was hers by right. But paper and actuality are often far removed from each other, and the very knowledge of what should be done often makes the doing of it the harder. Miss Falkner appeared to be conscious of this in the final, but she fought down the feeling courageously and so deserved her win.

The runner-up is a most promising little golfer with a well-controlled swing and an admirable temperament to match it. Before long, Cheshire should find her a useful member of the county, and in the meantime she has three more years in which to win the girls' championship.

Stoke Poges looked its best in bright sunshine, and the course was perfect after a deluge of rain during the night.

First off of the semi-finalists were Miss Falkner and Miss Johnson. All through the week the latter has played free, delightful golf. Yesterday she was possessed by the clutching hand which makes every muscle taut, destroys length, and gives the shots an uncomfortable liking for the left-hand side of the course.

Miss Falkner has played too much golf not to make the most of such a chance, and when she holed an excellent putt for a 4 at the 8th she was 3 up. Miss Johnson retained with a good one to win the 9th, and Miss Falkner, out in 39, turned 2 up.

After the turn at Stoke is where pressure can so often be brought to bear, and Miss Falkner brought it 4, 3, 4, and she won all those holes so that when her opponent failed to complete a clear run up by holing the putt at the 13th, she was downy. Her approach putt stone dead at the 14th was a perfect finish.

In the other semi-final it was again an over-anxious, vice-like grip which kept Miss Falkner, whilst Miss Pemberton, keeping beautifully straight and pitching well, refused to be dismayed by anything—even the 3, 4, 4, for 7th, 8th, and 9th which made Miss Stroyan turn 2 up.

Then Miss Stroyan seemed to fire—perhaps from the perpetual practice swing which is her habit—and losing six out of the next seven holes, went down by 4 and 2 to Miss Pemberton.

THE FINAL

The final did not see such good golf from either player. If Miss Falkner were in a bunker it appeared to be on her remaining three holes, but Pemberton missed two woefully short putts after nearly holing several long ones.

The lead changed hands twice before Miss Falkner, out in an approximate 46, turned 1 up. Miss Pemberton had chances to win the next three holes in a row, but she won only the 11th. Still, she became one up at the 13th, and halved the 15th, where Miss Falkner seemed to be feeling the strain of playing someone smaller, younger, and longer handicapped than herself.

But, then, the Surrey player pulled herself together, won the 16th in 2, the 17th in 5. She was perhaps lucky to run over the bridge across the lake, and after Miss Pemberton had played a fast lovely chip to the 18th, Miss Falkner replied with a good run up, and sank the 6ft. putt for the half and the championship.

The cups and prizes were presented by Captain Stroyan, including the Stoke Court Cup given to the player staying at that country club who remained longest in the championship. This went to Miss Pemberton. The Craig Cup scratch bogey round was won by Miss Peggy Edwards, of Manchester.

MISS PEGGY FALKNER.

MICHAEL SCOTT BEATEN

WESTERN AMATEUR GOLF TITLE

C. TOLLEY ALSO ELIMINATED

London, Sept. 6.

The Hon. Michael Scott, holder of the title, was beaten in the third round of the West of England Amateur Golf Championship at Burnham and Berrow, yesterday. His conqueror, E. F. Dawson (Eastbourne), went out in the next round to a local player, M. L. Goodenough-Dicker.

C. J. H. Tolley was beaten in the fourth round by L. S. Foster, from Calcutta. Included in the last eight are three players who have captained Oxford University in recent years—J. J. F. Pennink, E. H. Moss and J. P. Marston. All three are in the top half of the draw with Foster.

Pennink played some of the best golf of the day, for he was out in 35 strokes and eight holes up on A. Clarke (Hook Park), whom he beat by 9 and 8. Moss beat another old Oxford Blue in G. H. Micklem by 5 and 3, and Marston won at the 21st hole against A. S. Anderson.

Other survivors are D. A. Drayson (Mid-Surrey), T. R. A. Bevan (Hindhead) and J. V. C. Moberly (North Devon).

AUSTRALIAN MIXED

FOURSOMES

Melbourne, Sept. 5. Mrs. J. B. Walker, the new Australian women's golf champion, was on the losing side in the play off of the Australian mixed foursomes championship.

Mrs. Walker and her partner, Mr. Guest, returned 83, as against the 80 of Mr. Rae and Miss Marrie.

AQUATIC FEAT

New World Swimming Record

San Diego, Sept. 5.

Three world swimming records were broken at the meeting of the Pacific Coast Amateur Athletic Union at Transbay, Colorado. Miss Mary Lou Petty swam the 800 metres free style in 11min. 34sec., which broke Miss Lenore Knight's world record by 1.6sec. In the 800 metres relay she swam the first leg of 200 metres 2min. 34sec., to beat Miss Helen Madson's world record of 2min. 36.4sec.

The other three members of the team, Miss Olive McKean, Miss D. Buckley and Miss Betty Len, completed the relay in 10min. 38sec., to shatter the previous world record of 11min. 10sec.

NO. 37--FULHAM & PROMOTION

(By CHARLES BUCHAN)

With their neighbours, Chelsea and Brentford, in the senior ranks, Fulham occupy a position of splendid isolation in the West of London. It is time that they made a bold bid to join their more-favoured colleagues.

Under the guidance of manager Jack Peart they will make another attempt to reach the First Division for the first time in their history. I must admit, though, that I have not much faith in their ability to succeed.

More driving force, especially in away matches, is needed in the Fulham side. The cleverness is there, but the great-hearted spirit necessary when fighting an uphill battle has been missing, at least in recent years. Perhaps a change of tactics will work the miracle.

NOTABLE NEWCOMER

As there are likely to be few changes in the team I cannot visualise Fulham with a promotion chance in the coming campaign, though they should establish a good position in the top half of the table. Away points are doubly valuable where promotion is concerned and they may squander their opportunities on their opponents' grounds.

The most notable newcomer is Dennison, an inside-left from Nottingham Forest, previously with Newcastle. Others include Burdett, a hardy North-Eastern centre-forward, and Miller, a little outside-left from Northumberland, who had attracted the attention of several clubs.

Fulham will have the services of Arnold and Hammond, the county cricketers, for the opening matches, but even with their assistance the forward line may prove the least satisfactory part of the team. A reshuffling of positions may be necessary before a workmanlike combination is discovered.

On the beautiful turf at Craven Cottage I expect Fulham to prove superior to the majority of their opponents. I fear, however, that new blood must be transfused into the side before the First Division ambition is realised.

NO. 38-BIRMINGHAM

Competent Players
Available

Birmingham enter upon the new season with good heart. They finished up last season with an excellent side and plenty of capable reserves. They unquestionably possess a good range of competent players.

During the close season they have parted with McGurk, their Scottish international, who proved a poor bargain. He has gone to Bristol City, and Bradford has also been transferred to that club. Bradford has done Birmingham magnificent service, and his farewell appearance at St. Andrew's will long be remembered. Then Pearson has gone to Southend; Bulger to Lincoln City, and Hubbard to Luton Town.

W. A. H. Duff and Gordon Lum, two former Hong Kong residents, who figured against the Colony lawn tennis interlopers in Shanghai.

The only newcomers are W. Hughes, of Archers, Corinthians, Carmarthen, a left back, and C. L. Keene, a right back, who has been playing with the local B. S. A. team, while forward there is a smart outside-right, Young, of Shawfield, Glasgow. Young gave a very clever display in the game between the Birmingham Association Juniors and the Scottish Juniors at The Hawthorn last May.

Grosvenor is much stronger and better. His leg has received regular massage during the last few weeks, and he hopes to be perfectly fit at the opening of the season. Guest, and White made their places secure last season, and Jones (C. W.) is nearly certain to lead the attack. The defence is strong all round.

The training on the ground has been greatly improved, and the turf is in excellent condition. A new director has been elected, Councillor W. H. Dare, a highly capable young business man, and a former active player for the Mar Green Club.

The list of players is:
Goalkeepers: H. Hibbs, F. E. Clark, W. Turner.

Backs: E. Barkas, H. Booton, W. Hughes, C. L. Keene, A. Lilley, W. Steel.

Half-backs: C. Butler, C. Calladine, R. C. G. Derbyshire, T. Fillingham, G. Lea, J. Loughran, G. R. Morrall, L. Stoker, J. Sykes.

Forwards: J. Beasley, J. Devine, D. J. Denson, W. F. Guest, A. T. Grosvenor, F. Harris, C. W. Jones, F. Morris, S. H. Moffatt, S. J. Small, F. Shaw, F. R. White, F. Young.

NO. 39-NOTTINGHAM FOREST

Money Wisely Expended

Nottingham Forest's outlook for the coming season, which opens with a visit from Bury, can well be summed up in the statement of the chairman, Mr. H. R. Cobbin, who says: "With the new material and the retention of the pick of last season's players, the chances of promotion are as good as ever they have been."

No doubt the Forest Committee realise now that a gamble in the direction of positions, and since last April the £2,000 profit derived from a successful run in the F.A. Cup, plus a little more, has been judiciously expended on the buying of players.

The newcomers are D. Edgar, right full-back from Sunderland; F. Wallbanks, full-back from West Ham; O. Bowler, inside forward from Derby County; E. Stubbs, outside left from Wrexham, and J. Getty, a 17-year-old outside right from Vale of Leven.

The Forest have not yet succeeded in their quest for a constructive goal-scoring centre-forward, but they have two useful men in Dent and Burditt, and the last-named, who is only 21, should improve.

CHAPTER XXXIX

"I suppose," Rolf said, "I couldn't persuade you that I didn't intend to do that—I mean that wasn't what—oh, hang it all, I'm sorry!"

Janet did not answer. She had drawn away from him and in the darkness he could not see her eyes. Only the shadowy oval of her face.

"Well, I guess you don't believe me," he went on, "but it's true. I'm just like everything else lately. Everything goes wrong. Oh, Janet, I'm in such a mess!"

"What's the matter, Rolf?"

"Everything." "You mean there's something wrong at the office?"

"I mean there's something wrong everywhere. At the office. At home. Everywhere I go. I had a row with McPhail this morning. Well—almost a row. Blamed me because we lost the Liberty job and because I was a con-tractor. Can I help it if they change their minds? Oh, what's the use! It's the same thing all the time—"

"But why should he blame you for that? Are you handling contracts?"

"Well, you see, I got back from White Sulphur Springs. Betty thought I should have a more important job. She talked to her uncle and he agreed that I could take over some of the better contracts. On commission. But with times like these we'd lose a little business, isn't it? Everyone else has."

"Yes," Janet said doubtfully. "I suppose it is."

"That's what I wanted to talk to you about!" His tone was eager now. "Do you think I could get a job at 'Every Home'? They've never taken on anyone in Hamilton's place, have they? I'd like to cut loose from the Atlas Agency. That would show them! Just because I came there without much experience, nobody will listen to me. I could get a job like Hamilton's."

"I don't know," Janet put in doubtfully. "They've cut down on the staff. Of course I don't know how things are going lately but when I left Mr. Hamilton said they were going to try to get along without taking anyone else on."

"But they can't do that!"

"You could try, of course. Mr. Chambers would be the one to see."

"Chambers? I'll remember. To ask you. Oh, boy, I hope I can put this over. I'm afraid they wouldn't want to pay very much."

Rolf's laugh was bitter. "Well, I'm not getting so much as I used to. That's another thing that makes me sore at McPhail. It takes an awful lot to go around with this crowd of Betty's."

"Yes, I should think it would."

"It takes a lot of dough and—"

I don't know! Sometimes I get pretty tired of it. Parties or none, thing going on every night. I'd rather stay home lots of times but Betty always wants to go."

"I shouldn't think you could do much work and go to parties every night."

"I can't. I've tried to tell Betty that but she won't listen. Betty and I haven't been getting along so well the last few weeks. You see she—"

"Please!" Janet protested. "I'd rather not hear about it."

"All right." He moved nearer. "It's like old times. I haven't had a chance to talk to you for weeks. Don't you get it? It's getting late and someone will be looking for me or the telephone might ring. Lucy isn't here to-night."

"All the more reason to stay!"

She shook her head. "No, I can't."

"You're not mad about anything, are you?"

"No."

"I mean—about what happened?"

"No. Rolf, I'm not mad. And I hope you get the job at 'Every Home' only I can't stay any longer to talk about it. I—I really must go!"

"Please!"

"But I must!" She pulled her hand from his. "Good night, Rolf."

She said and fled up the walk toward the house.

Inside the hall was dark and she stood for a moment, leaning against the door. She closed her eyes and pressed her hands over them tightly but that did not shut out the memory. Nothing could do that! Nothing!

Slowly she made her way up the stairs to her room.

Mrs. Curtis put down the letter she was reading. She said, "Janet, you're looking pale this morning. Don't you feel well?"

Morning sunlight streamed through the bedroom window. Mrs. Curtis, wearing a negligee of orchid silk, sat near the window and looked up at her secretary.

"Why, yes, Mrs. Curtis. I—I didn't sleep well but I'm feeling all right."

"You don't look it. I think you should see a doctor."

"Oh, but it's nothing. Really, I feel perfectly all right!"

Mrs. Curtis said, "Hm! Well, I'm sure I don't want you getting sick. If you don't look better to-morrow I want you to telephone Doctor Roberts."

An hour later Janet slipped into her own room, brought out a box of rouge

and touched her cheeks with colour. She was careful to do the same thing next morning and nothing more was said about a visit from the physician.

Jeff telephoned Wednesday afternoon. He said, "Got something to celebrate, Janet. The Boss came across with a raise. Do you suppose you could go to dinner with me?"

"I'd love to but I'm afraid I can't get away."

"Well, then, how about seeing a movie? That's about all there is to do in town."

She said she thought she could manage that and agreed to be ready at eight o'clock.

It was promptly at eight that the little roadster appeared before the door of the brick house. Janet answered the ring, wearing her hat and coat, and a few minutes later they were off.

The movie proved to be only mildly entertaining. It was a gangster affair with a great deal of shooting and underworld warfare. As they came out of the theatre Jeff said, "Where! I think I need air after that. What about you?"

"Let's drive out on the hill road," Janet suggested. "I like it out there."

They got into the roadster and headed for the hill road. But this time when they came to the turn overlooking the lights of the city Janet did not stop.

Janet said, "Tell me about the race. How did it happen?"

"Nobody could have been more surprised than I was," Jeff told her. "The Boss just called me in this morning and said that from now on I was to take charge of the department and the salary would go up $5. Honestly, for a minute I thought he was kidding."

"I'm awfully glad, Jeff. You work hard and you deserve it."

"Well, I'm going to try to." He asked how things were going for her. "I'm going away from Lancaster," Janet announced.

"What?"

She nodded her head affirmatively. "I've thought it all out and it's the only thing for me to do. Should have gone long ago. I'll stay a few more weeks so that I'll have more money and then I'm leaving."

"But where will you go?"

"I'll settle that later. There are lots of places to go. I'm sick of Lancaster and everything in it. The people—"

"Do you mean that?"

Janet turned and put a hand on his arm. "I didn't mean it about you, Jeff. No matter where I go I'll never forget you."

There was silence between them. All at once the young man let out an exclamation and put his foot on the brake. On the road ahead Janet saw two figures—a man and a girl. There was something dark behind them.

"Let's see what this is," Jeff said as the car came to a halt.

NEW YORK STOCK
EXCHANGEMARKET IRREGULAR YESTERDAY

New York, Sept. 30.
The following reports on the New York Stock Market have been received through Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz:

The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's markets: Railroad issues were off. The New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad shares broke sharply on the nearness of the company's debt maturities. Steel, automobile and industrial securities were upward. Bonds were irregular. Stocks on the Curb Exchange were irregular.

S. C. and F. New York Office Cables:—The market was moderately firm, but irregular on President Roosevelt's promises of a reduction in the Budget and no new or increased taxes.

New York and Chicago commodity reports received through Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz:

Cotton:—The hurricane has passed without any damage to the cotton crop. The Trade was buying at a limit. There is so much buying awaiting the arrival of the 16-cent level that there is some doubt arising as to whether this price will be reached and the tendency to buy on small reactions is increasing.

Wheat:—Prices to-day advanced on inadequate rains in the Argentine and also on strong cables regarding the possibilities of war. Cash wheat is firm. The visible supply shows an increase of 4,000,000 bushels.

Corn:—The visible supply has decreased by 700,000 bushels. Distinct positions are easier on excellent crop progress.

Rubber:—This market was quiet, but firm. Exports of rubber from the Dutch Indies during August totaled 29,470 tons.

Special:—Steel mill activity during the past week is estimated at 50.8 per cent of capacity against 48.9 per cent the previous week.

ROOSEVELT AT CEREMONY

TREMENDOUS WORK

Boulder City, Sept. 30.
A strong defence of his public works policy as a means of throwing in the clutch and starting the whirling wheels of industry, was made by President Roosevelt in his dedicatory speech which marked the completion of the mighty Boulder Dam, the greatest work of its sort in America.
At the same time, the President uttered a warning that private enterprise must bear the main responsibility for maintaining increased employment.
He claimed that the Government's credit was safer and stronger than at any time in the past six years.
Boulder Dam, he went on, is one of the greatest achievements in the history of engineering. It had created the largest artificial lake in the world—115 miles in length. It protected the Imperial Valley of Nevada from floods and provided water to irrigate vast areas and produced at the same time an enormous output of electrical power, receipts from which source were expected to eventually repay every dollar of the $165,000,000 advanced for the work by the Government.—Reuter.

RAILROADS' FINANCES

VAN SWERINGENS HOLD SHARES

(Special to "Telegraph")
New York, Sept. 30.
The Directors of the Rio Grande Railroad have decided to postpone for thirty days any action on bond interest due on October 1, as well as a decision with respect to the filing of a petition for reorganization under the National Bankruptcy Act.
Creditors have agreed to the postponement.—Reuter Special.
New York, Sept. 30.
Van Sweringen Bros. were successful bidders at the auction sale of the collateral held by Messrs. J. P. Morgan and Co. as head of the banking syndicate holding $48,000,000 in notes of Van Sweringen's.
The collateral comprises over 51 per cent. of the Allegheny stock, which in turn controls the Chesapeake, Erie, Missouri and other railroads, as well as, indirectly, other vast Van Sweringen properties valued at $275,000,000.
As a result of the auction, Van Sweringen Bros. have regained control of their railroad empire.—Reuter Special.

STRIKING INCREASE IN CONSUMPTION

London, Sept. 30.
The decision of the League Assembly to organize the study of the dual problem of raising nutritional standards and disposing of agricultural surpluses or potential output leads special interest to a report issued by the Potato Marketing Board on an experiment in the distribution of potatoes at a reduced price to unemployed, carried out recently for eight weeks at Bishop Auckland.
The total consumption of potatoes in the area rose 69 per cent., showing that their demand is much more elastic to reductions in price than had been generally supposed. The reduction in price in this case was 3d. per stone on the already low price of 7d. Purchases of potatoes by unemployed through the central warehouse under the scheme exceeded previous purchases of the entire population.—British Wireless.

SUGAR BEET INDUSTRY

London, Sept. 30.
The Chancellor of the Exchequer and the Minister of Agriculture have appointed Sir Francis Humphreys, late British Ambassador in Baghdad, Sir Thomas Barlow, cotton manufacturer, and Mr. William Mortimer, solicitor, as a tribunal to advise on any scheme for amalgamating companies producing sugar from home-grown beet which the Beet Sugar Factories Committee may submit under a proposal announced in Parliament last July.—British Wireless.

FUSILIERS SENT TO GAOL

GLOUCESTER ARCADE RAID

Fusilier Henry Jones and Fusilier Benjamin James Williams, of the Royal Welch Fusiliers, stationed at Victoria Barracks, pleaded guilty before Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court this morning to a charge of breaking and entering the Outdoor Sports Equipment Company store, Gloucester Arcade, and stealing two ash trays. The complainant was Mr. R. J. Quing Yen, assistant of the store.
The Magistrate: Have you anything to say to why you did this?
Both defendants: Nothing, Sir.
Detective-Inspector M. Murphy stated that at 12.30 a.m. yesterday the watchman on night duty in the Gloucester Arcade heard a noise of breaking glass. He went to the scene and found the defendants on the premises. At the same time a European appeared and ordered the accused out. When handed over to Sergeant Daly, the accused each produced an ash tray. An iron bolt was found inside the store and it was apparently with this that they broke the glass. They admitted they went in to steal money.
"I have been instructed to ask your Worship to take a serious view of the case," said the prosecuting officer.
"This happened in the heart of the city. If these men escaped, probably some Chinese would have done so."—Reuter.

Capt. L. Gwyder-Jones, of the Fusiliers, who occupied a seat on the Bench, informed the Magistrate that Jones and Williams had four and a half years service each and drew very little money.
In passing sentence, his Worship said: Although the actual amount you took is very small, I must take a very serious view of this case. I think that if nobody had arrived on the scene you probably would have taken a great deal more. In addition, you have done a great deal of damage. You are sentenced to three months' hard labour each.

WON'T HELP MOONEY

BILLINGS WILL STAND APART

(Special to "Telegraph")
San Francisco, Sept. 30.
The bitterness of a forgotten man, Warren Billings, against a prison-mate he has been asked to help, was explained today.
Billings was sentenced to death together with Tom Mooney for the Preparedness Day bombing in San Francisco in 1916, and since that time he and Mooney have been virtually proved free of guilt. Mooney, with influential friends, has steadfastly maintained his fight for freedom, demanding complete exoneration. Billings, equally insistent of his innocence, is willing to accept parole.
At the outset Mooney and Billings fought side by side, but gradually Mooney's friends forgot about Billings. He was no longer consulted. He became the forgotten man.
Now, however, his testimony is vital to Mooney's defence. He has been asked to help his former comrade clear his name.
"Not much," says Billings. "He's fought for himself alone up to now. Let him go on by himself."
And he added: "I would be the goat after proceedings were over just as I have always been."—United Press.

SHOUTED INSULTS AT ITALIANS

FORCED TO LEAVE ITALY

Rome, Sept. 30.
The American millionaire, Mr. James Donoghue, cousin of the heiress, the former Miss Barbara Hutton, has been expelled from Italy for leaving from the balcony of a leading Rome hotel and shouting at passers-by "Long live Abyssinia."
Mr. Donoghue was escorted to the railway station by detectives.
An official spokesman told Reuter that "Donoghue's behaviour was offensive, so he was asked to leave the country."
Count and Countess Reventlow, the latter the former Princess de Mdivani, nee Barbara Hutton, have issued a statement saying they are good friends of Italy and profoundly regret the occurrence. They wish to dissociate themselves from Mr. Donoghue's action.—Reuter.
